WAR REAWAKENS NATIONAL SPIRIT IN UNITED STATES

President Wilson Says National Compulsion Moving the European Belligerents Is Being Felt in This Country.

SHOULD CONFLICT COME, AMERICA WOULD RALLY

As One Man to Defend Principles on Which Nation Is Founded — Great Mass of Foreign Born Would Be Loyal.

Washington, May 1.—America reawakened in national spirit through lessons of the war in Europe was the theme of an address by President Wilson today at the opening of the national service school military encampment for young women. In concluding the president voiced a warning that the honor and integrity of the United States cannot be tampered with. He prayed that the country should not be drawn into war, but declared that if it should be, "in the great voice of national enthusiasm which would be raised all the world would stand once more thrilled to hear the voice of the new world asserting the standards of justice and liberty."

Foreign-Born Citizens Loyal.

The president expressed confidence that in time of trouble the great mass of foreign-born citizens of the United States would be loyal.

"I never have had the slightest doubt of what would happen when America called upon those of her citizens born in other countries to come to the support of the flag," he said. "Why, they will come with cheers; they will come with a momentum which will make us realize that America has once more been cried awake out of every sort of distemper and dream and distraction, and that any man who dares tamper with the spirit of America will be cast out of the confidence of a great nation upon the instant."

The president spoke before several hundred young women dressed in khaki and drawn up in military order. They will be taught first aid to the wounded, bandage making, telegraphy and other war time arts. The encampment is being held under the auspices of the women's section of the Navy league. Secretaries Baker and Daniels and a large group of government officials and army and navy officers were included in the audience. The president's speech followed the formal raising of an American flag over the encampment.

President Wilson's Address.

The address follows:

"It is with unaffected pleasure that I come to greet you as you have assembled for the interesting things you are going to do. I have always felt that there was very much more inspiration in things that were voluntarily done than in things that were done under official direction and by official summons. You have volunteered to come together without official suggestion in order to study some things which, while they are characteristic of the sort of comfort and assistance which women have been accustomed to offer, are, nevertheless, in this instance associated with a very great national conception and duty.

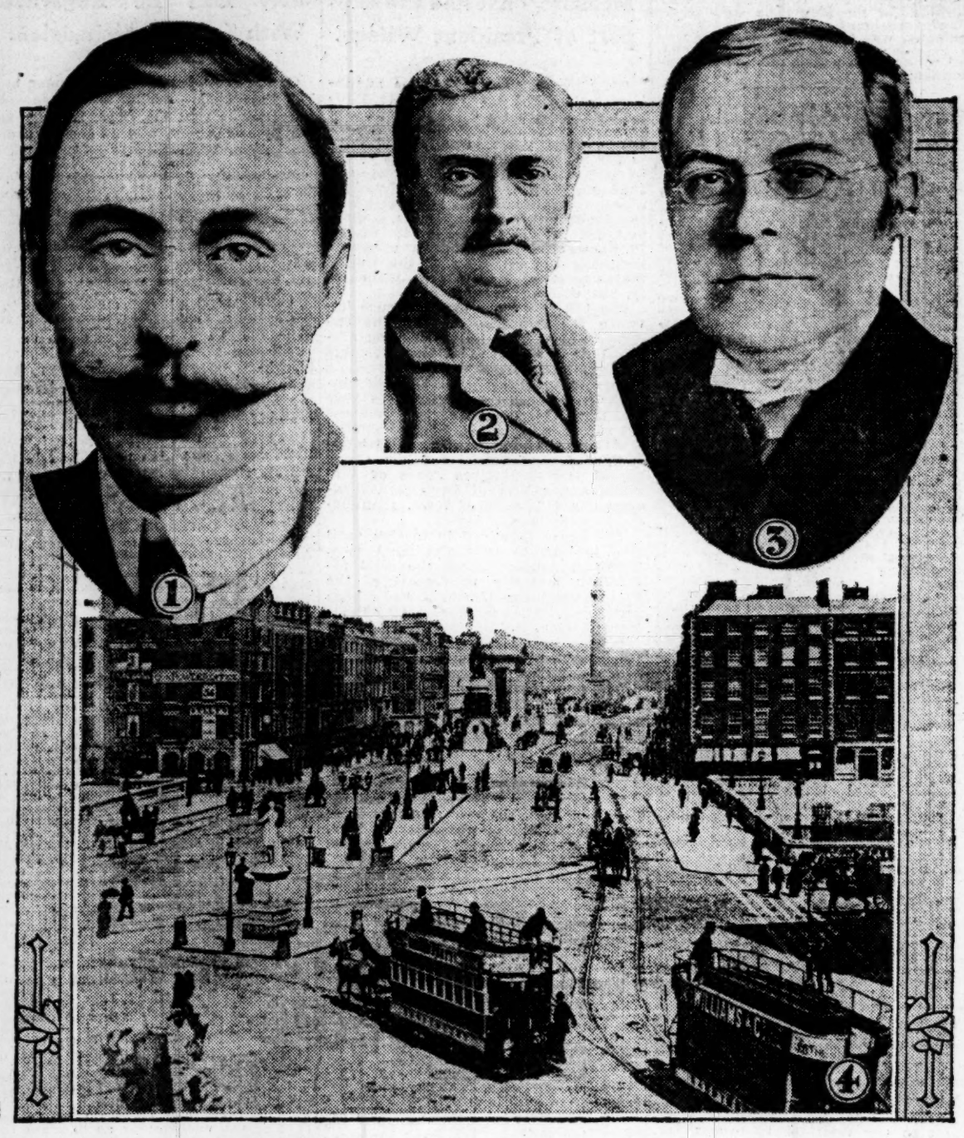

"We, of course, are living in the presence of conditions which we cannot yet assess, because they are unprecedented. The world never witnessed such a war as is now convulsing almost every part of the world except this part which we particularly love and would seek to safeguard; and the very foundations of the ordinary life of nations have been disturbed, so deeply disturbed that no man can predict what the final settlement will be. And if this war has done nothing else, it has at least done this: It has made Americans aware of dangers which most of us had deemed unreal, and has made us aware that the danger of our own time is nothing less than the unsettlement of the foundations of civilization.

Civilization Rests Upon Peace.

"Civilization does not rest upon war. It rests upon peace. It rests upon those things which men achieve by co-operation and mutual interest in one another. It does not flourish in the soil of hostility and antagonism, and a world war is a war in the presence of which civilization holds its

Sinn Feiners Struck for Irish Independence

The chief cause of present discontent in Ireland, beside the century old grievances of the irreconcilables who favor complete separation from England, is conscription. Although neither the draft measure now in force nor that being considered in England will apply in Ireland, opposition to conscription has nevertheless been used as an argument by the agitators who seized points in Dublin. The leaders of the opposition have been spreading the report that it is only a question of time when the conscription measures will be applied to the Irish as well as to the English. In the accompanying pictures No. 1 is Lord Wimborne, lord lieutenant of Ireland, whose capture by the rebels was reported; No. 2, John E. Redmond, leader in parliament of the Irish who adhere to the connection with England while favoring home rule; No. 3, Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland in the British government; No. 4, Sackville street, Dublin, one of the principal thoroughfares of the Irish capital and the scene of rioting.

HEALTH OFFICIALS STRESS THE NEED OF GARBAGE PLANT

Although the Committee Agrees Situation Is Urgent No Agreement Could Be Reached at Session Last Night.

"The only proper way to dispose of garbage is by burning, and to go back to the old method of dumping in the vacant lots around the edge of the city will be insanitary and unpleasant. It is decidedly better to settle the matter so that the city can operate the plant."—Dr. J. P. Kennedy, health officer.

"The city needs the use of the plant for health reasons. To force the sanitary department to dump garbage on the vacant lots will be an outrage on the community."—John Jentzen, chief sanitary department.

"The company will positively shut down the plant at 5 o'clock this afternoon. My company simply cannot stand the cost of operating longer."—George Spence, representing Destructor company.

Although health authorities of Atlanta stressed the necessity of some

$2,000 Bribe Paid To Memphis Judge Says Brewery Man

Nashville, Tenn., May 1.—That Judge Jesse Edgington, of Memphis, received $2,000 from P. A. Monteverde and James Coan, agents for the Evansville Brewing company at Memphis, in consideration of which he was to give protection and a modification of an injunction entered against them, was the statement made today by P. A. Monteverde, the only witness introduced by the state at today's proceedings before the state senate sitting as a court of impeachment. He also testified that he paid the sum of $1 per cask of beer to Tony Brignardello, who acted as an agent for Judge Edgington, this arrangement lasting for five weeks, during which time the amount so paid averaged $350 per week.

Monteverde said he paid half of the $2,000 bribe and Coan paid half. He testified Judge Edgington had called him to Edgington's home and told him Coan had offered a bribe. Monteverde then offered a similar sum.

CHARLTON IS STRICKEN AT SAVANNAH BANQUET

Savannah, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—While speaking at the 130th anniversary banquet of the Chatham artillery tonight Judge Walter G. Charlton was stricken with paralysis. In the midst of a graceful peroration he was noticed to falter, lean slightly forward and his speech became incoherent. Those who were not very near him thought he was overcome by emotion, as he was paying a beautiful tribute to the men who have commanded the historic Chathams.

Judge Charlton refused to give up, though he was entering into a complete collapse. Friends nearby helped him to a chair and he never spoke after that, as his entire right side was completely paralyzed. Dr. T. P. Waring, who was sitting only one man removed from him, thought at first the judge would not live until he reached the hospital, but he did and early this morning his condition seemed to be very slightly improved.

Judge Charlton accepted the invitation to attend the banquet, although it was generally known that the famous artillery punch would be served. He didn't touch a drop of the celebrated beverage, however. Other officers of the county remained away lest they be censured for attending a gathering at which even punch of this character was served. The judge took a broader view of the matter and was a guest.

Judge Charlton presides over the superior court. He has been judge about eight years, having been appointed by Governor Hoke Smith when Judge George T. Cann resigned. He is one of the most popular judges this county has ever had. His grandfather was a judge of the same court.

SINN FEIN REBELS SURRENDER ARMS TO BRITISH TROOPS

All the Insurgents in Dublin Have Yielded and Those in Country Districts Are Doing Likewise.

London, May 1.—All the rebels in Dublin have surrendered and those in the country districts are doing likewise, according to an official statement issued this evening. The statement says:

"All the rebels in Dublin have surrendered and the city is reported quite safe. The rebels in the country districts are surrendering to the mobile columns.

"There were 1,000 prisoners in Dublin yesterday, of whom 489 were sent to England last night.

"It is reported from Queenstown that hopes were entertained that arms would be handed in today in the city of Cork.

"During the night of April 30-May 1 the rebels in Enniscorthy made an offer to surrender their leaders and their arms on condition that the rank and file be allowed to return to their homes. They were informed that the only terms that could be entertained were unconditional surrender. These terms were accepted by them at 6 o'clock this morning. It was reported later that the rebels were surrendering today on these terms.

"A column composed of soldiers and Royal Irish constabulary captured seven prisoners in the neighborhood of Ferns (County Wexford) today.

"Wicklow, Arklow, Dunlavin, Bagenalstown and New Ross, and the counties of Cork, Clare, Limerick and Kerry are generally quiet. The whole of Ulster is quiet."

COMPLETE STORY OF TERRIBLE WEEK IN IRISH CAPITAL

Dublin, May 1.—(Via London.)—A return to normal conditions is being accomplished gradually in Dublin and it now is possible to give the first complete account of the happenings of the last week. Hitherto, news of the uprising has reached the outside world in fragmentary form, owing to the interruption of telegraphic communication, the censorship and the frequent conflict of statements, but the collapse of the rebellion has removed these conditions in great part and the story of the uprising may now be given in proper sequence, in the light of information from authoritative sources.

When the irreconcilable opponents of British rule in Ireland proclaimed the republic their move was looked on generally as a mere display of fanaticism. It was soon found, however,

MEXICANS GLOOMY BECAUSE OF STAY OF U. S. SOLDIERS

News That President Wilson Refuses to Withdraw Pershing's Expedition Is Received With Gravity in Juarez.

VILLA IS ELIMINATED, ACCORDING TO MEXICANS

And They Declare Presence of U. S. Troops Is Undermining Carranza Government—Scott and Funston to Confer Again With Obregon.

Washington, May 1.—President Wilson has not altered his purpose to keep American troops in Mexico until brigandage has come to an end.

After a conference at the white house today Secretary Baker prepared further instructions for Generals Scott and Funston, sought by the officers as a result of their conference with General Obregon, Carranza's war minister. The message went forward tonight. Its contents was not revealed, but both Secretaries Lansing and Baker said there had been no change in the administration's policy.

It is believed the American conferees sought additional instructions because General Obregon dwelt upon the view of the de facto government that the American expedition should be withdrawn at once. As General Scott had no power to discuss this matter, he presented what the Mexican war minister had to say to Washington.

Withdrawal of Troops Urged.

Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, called on Secretary Lansing today to renew his argument in favor of the early withdrawal. He was informed that the state department would not take up any diplomatic discussion of this subject until after the military conference at El Paso had concluded.

Later Mr. Arredondo indicated the feeling of his government that the American expedition has already accomplished its real purpose—the elimination of Villa and his adherents—and that longer occupation of Mexican territory by American troops was serving only to undermine the control of the de facto government over the general situation in Mexico.

"We are satisfied that Villa bandits are no longer to be looked upon as a menace to the peace of the country," he said. "The American troops should be withdrawn to restore tranquility among the people. It is believed that Villa has either been killed or driven to refuge where he will no longer molest either Americans or Mexicans.

"There is, however, an increasing suspicion among some of our people that the American troops are remaining in Mexico for some other motive than to pursue the bandits."

The ambassador acted under general instructions from his government in renewing his request for a reply to General Carranza's note suggesting that the time had come to take up the question of withdrawal. He had heard nothing directly or indirectly from the conference at El Paso and said his efforts with the state department were independent of General Obregon's discussion with General Scott.

Scott-Funston Reports.

The reports of the border conference are signed jointly by Generals Scott and Funston. So far as is known they have contained no recommendations from the two officers, merely stating what had been said and asking for such further information as they thought was necessary in order to pursue the discussions. There is little question that the additional instructions outline the administration's views as to the withdrawal of troops so clearly that General Obregon will have no doubts as to what General Carranza will be told when a reply to his note is made.

In some quarters in touch with Mexican developments it was said that the president was handling the situation personally and had no question for decision to lay before his cabinet tomorrow.

It was stated officially that no formal demand for withdrawal of the troops had been made by any representative of the de facto government.

State department advices today said arrangements had been made to transport American refugees at Manzanillo to the United States. Telegraphic reports from Monterey said that the newspapers there, by friendly publications, had contributed to the good feeling existing towards Americans.

Dispatches from Guaymas indicated that the Yaquis had been driven out of the mountains.

Consular reports from Topolobampo, Mazatlan, Tampico, Vera Cruz and Mexico City said conditions at those points were quiet.

NEWS RECEIVED WITH GRAVITY

El Paso, May 1.—Information that Secretary Baker had instructed General Scott and General Funston to make it plain to General Obregon that any agreement reached at their conference here must not be based on any plan for immediate withdrawal of American troops from Mexico was received with gravity in Juarez tonight.

General Obregon refused to comment, saying he would await developments at his next conference, expected to take place tomorrow. Among other Mexican officials gloom was openly expressed. It was pointed out that General Obregon had come to the border confident that he could persuade Generals Scott and Funston that the American forces should be withdrawn at once. Secretary Baker's instructions were regarded as completely blocking the hope of the Mexican war minister.

Reply of Obregon.

Speculation tonight deals with the reply General Obregon will make to the proposals Generals Scott and Funston will present at the next conference.

In some quarters it was declared that

Congressmen Backing Constitution Crusade For Real "Dry" Georgia

"DRYS" KEEP TAB ON LIQUOR STORED IN PRIVATE HOMES

"We Will Seek to Punish Those Who Flagrantly Violate Law," Says Anti-Saloon League Officer.

LAW IS BEING OBEYED, SAYS DETECTIVE CHIEF

No Violations by Clubs Nor Saloons, He Reports—Bitter War Declared on "Blind Tigers" by Police.

GRAND JURY WHICH WILL PROBE PROHI VIOLATORS

The Fulton county grand jury, which was charged Monday morning by Judge Ben Hill to probe all prohibition violators, is composed of the following members: W. A. Ward, foreman; St. Elmo Massengale, secretary; H. S. Collinsworth, assistant secretary; S. W. Carson, E. Rivers, Sigmund Weil, G. W. Hall, E. J. Sullivan, H. L. DeGive, P. W. Breitenbucher, J. J. West, W. R. Carroll, W. L. Percy, George A. Gershon, D. R. Wilder, W. F. Winecoff, L. R. Carmichael, E. G. Little, W. S. McKemie and S. J. Elder.

Atlanta woke Monday morning, May 1, consumed gallons of ice water to quench the thirst created by two days of celebration of the end of the "wet" season, and "soberly" set about to adjust herself to the conditions brought about by Georgia's new prohibition laws becoming effective.

A high official of the Georgia Anti-Saloon league informed a reporter for The Constitution Monday that the law enforcement department of the league had not "been asleep during the last few weeks."

"Our agents have information and evidence that a number of prominent citizens have stored large quantities of whisky and beer in the basements of their homes," he said. "We know of a large quantity of whisky stored in the basement of a downtown building.

Delivered Too Soon.

"We know of one prominent citizen of Atlanta who had a barrel of Scotch and a barrel of rye whisky ordered sent out to his home after nightfall, and, when by mistake, the drayman stopped in front of his house during the afternoon, he sent word out by his butler for him to drive off into the woods nearby and wait until nightfall before coming back to deliver the whisky.

"You can expect cases to be made within the next few days. We are going to work in conjunction with the police department and help enforce Georgia's new prohibition laws. We will only seek to punish those men who flagrantly violate the prohibition laws by storing large quantities of liquor in their homes and other places."

Hundreds of drays were busy Monday hauling away beer counters from local saloons. The only saloons that had their doors open during the day were those where such work was going on.

At the "Rex" saloon the crepe hung on the door by Charlie Jones, proprietor, Sunday, still hung throughout Monday, and thousands of Atlantans stopped to read the card on the door which called on every man to "look and work for the day of RESURRECTION."

Law Is Being Observed.

Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford announced at nightfall that the new prohibition laws were being observed by the clubs and saloons.

Police Commissioner Andy King, who is chairman of the board of police commissioners, stated to a Constitution reporter that he and the police officials realized that large quantities of whisky were stored away in different places in Atlanta.

"Chief Lanford has been instructed to go after these supplies, and already some raids have been made," said Chairman-Commissioner King. "I am going to carry out my promise of several weeks ago and enforce the prohibition laws in Atlanta. We are going after the 'blind tiger.' It will take a little time to unearth the hidden supplies of liquor."

It also developed during the day that the police department has information that a distillery is being built in Atlanta. Detectives are watching this phase very closely, and a raid is expected every day.

STRICT LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Recorder Johnson went on record in police court Monday, as reading the "riot act," to violators of the state and city prohibition laws, seven alleged "blind tigers" receiving extra heavy penalties.

Stela Sassine, a negress, was fined $200.75 and thirty days in the stockade for violating section 1489 of the city code, which says that it is unlawful to keep whisky on hand for illegal sale.

Under the same count, Julius O'Neal was given $200.75 and thirty days; Sanford Boyd was given $200.75 and thirty days, and Nellie Searcy was fined $50.75 and thirty days.

At the morning session of court Sally Williams, Henry Boyd and John Redding were each fined $200.75 or thirty in the stockade and the Williams wom-

They Take the Position That the State Prohibition Laws Should Not Be Nullified by Action of Federal Government.

LEGISLATION FAVORED TO STOP LIQUOR FLOOD

Only Adamson and Tribble Decline to Comment on Constitution's Position. The Other Representatives Hold Federal Government Should Aid in Enforcing State "Dry" Laws.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 1.—(Special.)—Members of the Georgia delegation in congress who could be reached today were strongly in sympathy with the position on prohibition taken by The Constitution on Sunday, namely, that the state laws to prohibit the manufacture and sale and to restrict the use of liquors should not be nullified through the agencies and instrumentalities of the national government.

Efforts to Prevent Nullification.

Efforts to prevent such nullification have taken various forms in the last quarter of a century, beginning with the Wilson act of 1890, which made interstate shipments of liquors subject to state juridiction "upon arrival." The supreme court held "arrival" to mean actual delivery to the consignee.

The act of 1909 prohibited C. O. D. shipments and abolished the express office adjunct of the saloon. It also required liquors to be plainly marked on the outside cover.

Next came the act of 1913, which prohibited the interstate shipment of liquor when "intended by any person interested therein, to be received, possessed, sold, or in any manner used, either in the original package or otherwise, in violation of any law of such state."

Congress intended by these laws absolutely to protect prohibition states, and prevent them being deluged with liquors from outside their borders contrary to their legally-expressed wish. No penalty was provided, the punishment being left to state statutes. Its entire purpose was to support the states in the enforcement of local prohibition laws.

Indorse Constitution's Position.

Representatives Edwards, Park, Crisp, Howard, Wise, Lee, Bell, Vinson, Walker and Hughes indorsed and approved The Constitution's position.

Representative Adamson declined to comment, saying: "That matter is not before my committee."

Representative Samuel J. Tribble was also non-committal.

Representative Wise, paraphrasing David B. Hill, simply said: "I am a prohibitionist."

Representative Walker: "Congress has already acted to sustain dry states and lend them aid in enforcing their anti-liquor laws. These statutes are to be enforced by our state officials as vigorously as laws of the legislature. Together they should effectively curb the evil."

Representative Edwards: "I am in favor of the state prohibition laws being enforced to the letter, and think the national government should help in the prohibition cause. I voted for the Webb bill. I am for law enforcement and shall do whatever is in my power at all times to uphold law and order."

Representative Dudley M. Hughes: "Georgia, through her legislature, has sought to make the state dry territory. The federal government ought to cooperate in making those laws effective, or at least not permit them to be violated by means of federal agencies, the mails and the parcel post."

National Prohibition Foreseen.

Representative Frank Park: "We have a federal statute preventing interstate shipments of liquor into dry

Arm Now Against Disease

With the first warm wave comes the invasion of the nation's greatest pest, and admitted menace to health—the house-fly. Now, to combat him and annihilate him has of recent years been a subject of deep research and wide exploitation. The fly is a scavenger and a rapacious eater. His existence depends on the feeding grounds usually provided for his welfare and propagation, through the very neglect of folks in destroying, or carefully covering up the daily refuse from their own houses. One of the best checks against the invasion of the fly, and his spreading of infectious disease, is a well covered, sanitary garbage can. Preach the importance of this matter to your servants. It is one of the necessary cares of the summer to do so, but well worth the while in its added guardianship of the health of the entire household. Better take stock of the garbage can now, and see if it is in proper shape to afford you the necessary protection through the season. If found lacking, phone your hardware merchant to send you out a new one. The representative hardware dealers of Atlanta advertise in The Constitution.

NOTE—The CONSTITUTION guarantees a marked saving on every purchase made in Atlanta in stores that advertise their lowest prices in these pages.

states, and today we have in Georgia a rigid state prohibition law. An honest enforcement of both should reduce the sale of liquors to a minimum. If these statutes fail in their intent and purpose, nothing remains but national prohibition. A resolution so to amend the constitution failed of passage in congress two years ago. If one county in Georgia is legally dry and the adjoining county is legally wet, they are both wet. The people in the dry county have to send or go just a little further than formerly for the liquors. The same is true of states."

Representative Charles R. Crisp: "Congress has passed the Webb law which divests liquor of its interstate commerce character, leaving it to the respective states to pass legislation to prohibit the manufacture and sale within the state. Personally I have always been and am now a strong prohibitionist. I have voted for prohibition at every opportunity I have had in Georgia and in congress and supported the Hobson resolution for national prohibition. I will support any sound national legislation that has for its object prohibition of the manufacture and sale of liquor. I have introduced in this congress, and it is now pending, a bill to prohibit the federal government from issuing a license for the sale of liquor in any state where by law its sale is prohibited."

Gordon Lee's Position.

Representative Gordon Lee: "I supported as an amendment to the Hobson resolution a substitute offered by Representative Morrison, of Indiana, which provided: 'The importation of any spirituous, vinous, malted, fermented, or other intoxicating liquors into any state of the United States, or into the District of Columbia, or into any territory, liquor from any other state, district, or territory, county, place, or region, domestic or foreign, is forever prohibited.' This amendment if adopted would have absolutely prohibited the export trade. That was my position two years ago. It is my position today. Under it Georgia would today be as dry as a bone."

Representative William Schley Howard: "What the states want and demand is the right to govern their own affairs. For that reason and for the further reason that I have strong convictions that the sale of liquor is a moral and economic parasite gnawing at the very vitals of our civilization I have always voted to curtail its use. I voted for the Webb bill, for the reason it was a step toward the rights of states to prevent any evil influence from flourishing within its borders contrary to the wishes of its people.

"I voted for national prohibition for the reason that it is impossible for Georgia to do its will as long as the federal government makes liquor a legitimate commodity in interstate commerce.

"The eyes of the nation were focused on Georgia today and she will do as she has always done, vindicate her traditions as a law-abiding, law-enforcing state."

Approves Constitution Cartoon.

Representative Carl Vinson: "I thoroughly approved the idea behind The Constitution's splendid cartoon. I am strongly in favor of closing the back door of our state to interstate shipments of liquor so that the expressed will of the people's representatives may be carried out. Congress has sought through the Webb law, to accomplish this result. Stern, vigorous enforcement of existing law by our state officials will make the state dry practically as well as legally."

"DRYS" KEEP TAB ON LIQUORS STORED

an was held to the state courts under a bond of $200 for selling whisky.

Recorder Johnson has announced his intention of fining to the limit all who come before him charged with violating any part of the prohibition laws, and made it known Monday that what he had done was only a starter to what he was going to do.

Chief of Detectives Newport A. Lanford and Police Chief W. M. Mayo have both especially instructed their men to be particularly vigilant in enforcing the law, and both officials have been personally active in starting the movement to stamp out "blind tigers" and all who illegally traffic in liquor in Atlanta.

COURT WARNS WILY DRINKERS.

Those citizens of Georgia who, with forethought, sought to prepare against any baneful immediate effects of the state going dry May 1 by "laying in" a supply of alcoholic beverages for their own consumption had better reduce their stock on hand to fit the limitations of the law, judging from the tone of Superior Court Judge Ben Hill's charge to the Fulton county grand jury, because, he says, such folk are lawbreakers.

Worse than that, to quote from the charge delivered Monday morning, "They are anarchists."

"I would advise them," he says, "to get rid of their supply. Let them give the oversupply to less fortunate neighbors, or, if the neighbors are supplied, let them pour it into the gutter."

The court admonished the grand jury that a person may supply himself with two quarts of whisky, one gallon of wine or 48 pints of beer, but no more, at one time; and if he has any two of these varieties of drink in his possession at one time he is a law violator and punishable by from two to five years in the penitentiary.

Also, the court calls attention to the provision of the law against the carrying of liquor advertising by publications circulating in Georgia, and says that "if a citizen receives a publication containing a liquor advertisement and hands such publication to a friend he is violating the law, and I would advise him to destroy it."

In State of Anarchy.

"Georgia has been in a state of anarchy for seven years, the period in which near-beer saloons and clubs have been evading the law," said Judge Hill. "There has been a spirit of unrest, with the individual putting his personal opinion against the law. This has been responsible for those other ills to which our state has been a prey. There is no need for me to refer specifically, for you all know what I mean.

"The country sections have complied with the law, but a spirit of insurrection against the law has prevailed in every Georgia city from Tybee Light to Rabun Gap. This is a deplorable situation and should cease. It is within the power of grand juries to instill a greater respect for law by a fearless performance of duty."

After explaining in detail the various phases and provisions of the new law, with especial emphasis upon that section prescribing the quantities of the various classes of liquor permitted to be kept on hand by citizens, Judge Hill continued:

Evidence Easy to Get.

"I want you to note this carefully—the law provides that a person may supply himself with one gallon of wine, or 48 pints of beer, or two quarts of whisky, either one of the three, not all. No person can have liquor, beer and wine on hand at the same time. The legislature inserted that little word 'or,' and this means that a choice must be made by the purchaser. If he wants wine, he can not buy liquor and beer; if he wishes beer, he must leave off the other two, and if his choice is liquor, then he must forego wine and beer.

"The evidence under this new and stringent law, will be obtainable," continued Judge Hill. "Purchasers of intoxicants must sign affidavits for the express companies and railroads. These are returned to the ordinary, from him to the sheriff, from him to the grand jury. It is your duty to indict violators not only for their offense against this prohibition law, but for false swearing, when this occurs. This is a felony, punishable by from two to five years in the penitentiary.

"The liquor dealers in their advertisements have been advising Georgians to fill their houses with liquors. Those who have been so unwise as to accept this authority on law and put in a stock of liquor are lawbreakers. They are anarchists. I would advise them to get rid of their supply. Let them give the oversupply to less fortunate neighbors, or, if the neighbors are supplied, let them pour it into the gutter.

Warns Advertisers.

"The law forbids advertising of intoxicants in Georgia, and if a citizen receives a publication containing a liquor advertisement and hands such publication to a friend he is violating the law. I would advise him to destroy it.

"The new law differs from the old in that it offers no opportunity for evasion. It is clear and distinct. It is the beginning of a new era in Georgia. For seven years every city in the state has been violating the law.

"There has been recently a severe criticism of the superior courts by a distinguished federal judge. His remarks were too general to be of value. We all know the courts are powerless unless the grand juries indict and the petit juries convict offenders.

"I trust this grand jury, the first under the new law, will set an example for their successors to follow."

The grand jury convened Monday morning for the May term, and W. A. Ward, president of the Ward-Truitt company, was elected foreman. It was in session only during the forenoon, and returned only four unimportant indictments.

breath and wonders if it will itself survive. As we see these great issues joined, we on this side of the water are doing this great service: We are reminded of our spiritual relation, not only to this great struggle, but particularly to this great nation of which we constitute parts, and our spiritual relation to the rest of the world is determined by our spiritual relation to America.

"You have come together to be prepared for any unusual duty which America may call upon you to perform, but what has moved you to do this? Your duty to your country. But what is the foundation of that duty? What do you conceive America to be? When you come to the last searching analysis we do not owe any duty except to those things that we believe in, and the glory of performing our duty towards America is that we believe in America, and we believe in America because—I venture to say it with entire respect for other peoples and other governments—this government was established with a special purpose such as no other government ever avowed. This government was established in order that justice and liberty might belong to every man whom our institutions could touch, and not only that justice and liberty should belong to America, but that, so far as America was concerned and her influences involved, they should be extended to mankind everywhere. So the inspiration of serving America is a very profound inspiration.

War Has Aroused National Spirit.

"Have you not thought what might be the outcome of this great struggle, so far as the nations already engaged are concerned? Can you not imagine the great awakening that has come to a country like France, for example; how much more intensely every Frenchman and every German feels the national compulsion than he ever felt it before? How much more he feels himself, not an individual, but a fraction in a great whole? How much more his blood springs to the challenge of patriotic suggestion? He is not fighting for his own life. He is sacrificing his own life, or willing to sacrifice it, in order that a greater life than his might persist, the life of his nation. So, in America we are getting already the indirect benefit of that suggestion. We are beginning to realize how a nation is a unit, and that any individual of it who does not feel the impulse of the whole does not belong to it and does not belong in it.

"We have heard a great deal about divided allegiance in this country, but before we discuss divided allegiance in its political aspect we ought to let our thoughts run back to what were perhaps our divided allegiances in respect to our relations to each other. America had been brought to such a point of diversification of interest, of conception, of objects sought, that she was in danger of losing the consciousness of her singleness and solidarity. There were men pulling at cross purposes in this country long before the war came to remind us that we were a single nation, with a single duty and a single ideal; and the first thing that has happened to us is that we have all been pulled together by a great tug at the heart in respect to our individual interests. We have all been reminded with an emphasis for which I for one thank God that we are first of all American and only after that at liberty to seek our individual interest. And then those of our fellow citizens who may for a little while be tempted to think rather of the lands of their origin than of the land of their present allegiance have been reminded that there is, politically speaking, only one allegiance conceivable and possible.

Not Deceived About the Hyphen.

"You have heard a great deal about the hyphen. I for one have never been deceived. The number of persons of really divided allegiance in this country is very small, and if I had been born in some other country I would for one resent the representations which have been made by those who were not the spokesmen of those from whom they pretend to speak in suggesting a divided allegiance. I have never had the slightest doubt of what would happen when America called upon those of her citizens born in other countries to come to the support of the flag. Why, they will come with cheers; they will come with a momentum which will make us realize that America has once more been cried awake out of every sort of distemper and dream and distraction, and that any man who dares tamper with the spirit of America will be cast out of the confidence of a great nation upon the instant.

"I believe that a certain spiritual regeneration is going to come out of this thing. We have been thinking too much about our individual selves and too little about the country of which we constitute a part, and one of the services which you ladies are going to render is to show how, upon no summons at all, upon the mere offering of the opportunity, women will come together to render those inestimable services which are necessary if the country should get into any sort of trouble.

"God forbid that we should be drawn into war, but if we should be, America would seem once more to shake herself out of a dream to say, 'Did any man deem that we were asleep? Did any man deem that we had forgotten the traditions of America? Did any man deem that he could tamper with the honor or integrity of the United States?' And in the great voice of national enthusiasm which would be raised all the world would stand once more thrilled to hear the voice of the new world asserting the standards of justice and liberty."

NO INDEPENDENCE FOR PHILIPPINES

31 House Democrats Join Republicans in Killing Measure That had the Support of President Wilson.

Washington, May 1.—The administration's fight for the senate Philippine bill with its Clarke amendment authorizing independence for the islands within four years, was lost tonight in the house. After voting 213 to 165 to strike out the Clarke amendment, the house, by a vote of 251 to 17, passed a substitute for the entire measure, the Jones bill, providing for a greater measure of self-government in the Philippines and carrying a preamble declaring the intention of the United States to grant independence ultimately, but without fixing a date.

The bill now goes to conference between the two houses, with the opponents of the Clarke amendment satisfied that it is dead at least for this session of congress.

Over the heated protest of administration leaders the house, by a vote of 203 to 154, instructed its conferees not to agree to any declaration setting a definite time for granting the islands their independence. Speaker Clark named Representatives Jones of Virginia, and Garret of Tennessee, democrats, and Towner of Iowa, republican, as conferees.

The house remained in session until late tonight to take the final vote. Thirty democrats joined the solid republican minority in defeating the Clarke amendment, which had been given unqualified indorsement by President Wilson.

It was the first marked victory of the year over any part of the president's legislative program and the republicans were noisily jubilant. After each victorious vote they applauded for several minutes and by way of mocking the democrats emitted repeatedly the famous "rebel" yell of the majority.

Democrats Who Opposed.

The democrats who voted against the Clarke amendment were: Allen, Ohio; Beakes, Michigan; Bruckner, Carew, Conry, Dale, Doolin, Driscoll, Farley, Fitzgerald, Flynn, Griffin, Hulbert, Maher, Patten, Riordan and Smith, New York; Coady, Maryland; Eagan, Hammill and Hart, New Jersey; Estopinal, Louisiana; Gallagher, McAndrews and McDermott, Illinois; Olney, Phelan and Tague, Massachusetts, and O'Shaunessy, Rhode Island.

The first vote, taken after eight hours' debate in committee of the whole, showed 193 to 151 votes against the senate provision. Chairman Jones, of the insular affairs committee, then attempted to procure the adoption of substitutes, extending the time limit for freeing the Filipinos. They were quickly voted down. The first, to grant freedom in not less than two or not more than six years, was defeated, 186 to 146, and the second, making the minimum time four years and the maximum eight, was lost, 193 to 162.

Then came the substitution of the Jones bill. The entire house insular committee had agreed to it before the senate bill had passed, and substantially the same measure was passed by the house at the last session of congress. Without further debate on other sections of the senate bill, Mr. Jones offered his measure as a substitute for the remainder of the senate bill, and it immediately was adopted.

There is nothing in the body of the Jones bill promising independence to the Filipinos, nor anything in any part of it setting a definite time for a declaration of their independence. The preamble merely states that it always has been the intention of the United States government to grant the islands their freedom and in order that they may be better prepared for it a larger degree of control over the domestic affairs is placed in their hands.

Filipino Commissioner Disappointed.

Manuel L. Quezon, the resident commissioner of the Philippines in congress, said he was so greatly disappointed over the failure of the senate bill in the house that he would not return to congress.

"This ends my work in congress," he said. "I am not coming back. What is the use? The action of the house tonight makes the fight for independence harder. I notice that not a single republican voted for the Clarke amendment. They had it all figured out in advance."

Mr. Quezon had advocated the senate bill in an earnest speech during the afternoon. He told the house that Japan would not seize the islands if they were freed and moreover that Japan would keep off any European nation that might turn hungry eyes that way.

"Japan is not going to antagonize the European nations and the United States," he said. "Japan knows that the Philippine people never would be happy under the Japanese flag and that it would mean that Japan would have a war with some other nation."

"Have you confidence in the world nations to believe that you will be left alone after you are free and independent without a standing army and navy?" demanded Representative O'Shaugnessy.

"I have no more confidence in the world nations than the small nation of the American people in 1776, when there were only 3,000,000 of them," replied Mr. Quezon.

He said he was satisfied, however, that the bill would go back to the senate, go into conference there to die. "If Abraham Lincoln were here today," he added, "he would be bewildered. He would have to be introduced to you on the republican side."

Debate Was Tame.

Debate on the bill was unexpectedly tame. Little objection was raised to the democratic plan to rush the measure through. General debate was limited to eight hours by unanimous consent and only seven hours were used. The other hour was given to discussion of the Clarke amendment under the five-minute rule and shortly after 8 o'clock tonight voting began in committee of the whole.

Representative Jones' argument for the senate bill was that the time had come to redeem the promise of freedom to the Filipinos and that it was useless for the United States ever to attempt to protect the islands in case they were attacked by a strong foreign invader. Representative Towner, of Iowa, the ranking minority member of the insular committee, insisted that the islands were valuable possessions and were unprepared for freedom.

"Don't haul down the flag," was the burden of a score of speeches from the republican side. Representative Cooper, of Wisconsin, republican, struck a discordant note on the minority side by declaring that while the flag was in the Philippines, the constitution had not been there.

Representative Conry, who, with Representative Fitzgerald, led the solid New York democratic delegation against the senate bill, brought the long session to a dramatic close by collapsing in his seat as the final vote was taken. He had appeared in the house ill and weak, but determined to see the fight finished. His condition is not regarded as serious.

NO ACTION ON BRANDEIS BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Washington, May 1.—Efforts to get a vote in the senate judiciary committee today on the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis for the supreme court failed again, and the committee adjourned after several hours' debate until Wednesday. It was announced, however, that the vote might be taken next Monday.

Republican senators urged a vote at once. Several democrats wanted to wait because of the absence of Senator Shields, of Tennessee.

GERMANY TO YIELD TO UNITED STATES?

Berlin Says Future German-American Relations Probably Can Be Regarded With Less Apprehension.

Copenhagen, May 2.—(Via London.)—The Politiken's Berlin correspondent understands that the German reply to the American note will be delivered on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Berlin, May 1.—(Via London.)—Future German-American relations probably can be looked forward to with less apprehension.

The Associated Press is permitted to make this statement, although dispatches bearing on the nature of the German reply to the American note respecting submarine warfare have been stopped by the censorship.

The deliberations at great headquarters have been concluded and Ambassador Gerard will leave this evening for Berlin, arriving here Tuesday afternoon.

The German reply is expected with little delay, but it is considered undesirable that preliminary indications of the nature of the note should be published abroad.

No Conclusion Reached.

Discussions over the answer to the American note continued Sunday at great headquarters without a conclusion being reached, according to advices to The Lokal Anzeiger.

The newspapers for the most part still refrain from comment. Theodor Wolff, in The Tageblatt; George Bernhard, in The Vossische Zeitung; Count von Reventlow, in The Tages Zeitung, and The Taglische Rundschau, however, give consideration to the subject.

Herr Bernhard considers the situation still grave and voices a warning against too great optimism. He declares that the final decision "depends solely" on President Wilson.

"There would be no greater mistake," he says, "than the expectation that the American congress might reach a different decision than the president. The time for exercising influence on the American people and their representatives is passed. It is not doubted now that congress stands behind President Wilson; the German leaders who have the task of framing the German answer must remember this.

"We would understand any decision, no matter what it is, under the self-understandable condition that it preserves Germany's dignity."

No Halfway Measures.

But there must be no halfway measures, says Herr Bernhard, and the decision reached must create a final and enduring status. He refers to the fact that the offensive has been the guiding spirit of Prussia's and Germany's military operations since the time of Frederick the Great, and concludes:

"And if our statesmen in reaching a decision in the light of their information on all the conditions involved believe that they must do so in the face of the uncertainty as to what the purposes of the other party are, they will have to take into consideration the question whether in such cases it is not wiser to take the lead themselves rather than be forced to play to the lead of the other player."

Herr Wolff's article refers again to the hopes of Germany's enemies of a rupture between the United States and Germany and to the dissenting voice of Gustave Herve (the French anti-military agitator) whom he quotes as saying that France's only hope is Germany's thick headedness.

Herr Wolff declares that the war can and will last a long time "unless reason illuminates the darkened minds of those who still do not want peace."

The Taglische Rundschau still believes that it will not be possible to find a compromise between President Wilson's demand "and the protection of our vital interests, since President Wilson seems to desire a breach and in 14 days new cases would follow the Sussex case if that should have been adjusted."

NO DISPATCH FROM GERARD.

Washington, May 1.—The state department has had no communication from Ambassador Gerard since he sent word of his leaving to confer with Emperor William at Great headquarters. Secretary Lansing today described the situation as unchanged with the United States awaiting the next word from Germany.

180,000 SOLDIERS FOR REGULAR ARMY

Conferees Decide on Figures for Peace Strength. 220,000 Men Would be the War Strength.

Washington, May 1.—Hope for an agreement in conference on the army reorganization bill seemed brighter tonight after an all-day session of the conference committee in which a basis for negotiation of differences between the senate and house on the regular army was reached.

Senate conferees agreed to yield on the proposed standing army of 250,000 men and to accept a peace strength of 180,000 men, provided the house would accept the expansion system of organization in the senate bill. Under this system the regular army could be increased in time of conflict to 220,000 or more. House conferees tentatively agreed to this proposition upon which to base agreements as to detail, organization of units and other features of the measure. The Chamberlain bill before it was amended in the senate, placed the maximum strength of the regular army at about 180,000 men, whereas the house bill left it at 140,000.

Although the conferees are exerting every possible effort to reach a complete agreement, some of them fear that all disputed points cannot be worked out without referring some points back to the senate and house for further instructions. Senate conferees still are holding out for the federal volunteer army, as well as their proposed system of federalization of the national guard, but the house leaders insist that they eventually will win their fight to eliminate the volunteer army and retain the house national guard provisions.

The matter of a government nitrate plant has not been reached by the conferees, but its opponents regard it as certain that it will be stricken from the bill.

China Short of Coal.

Washington, May 1.—A coal famine is threatening the industries of Hong Kong, China, the department of commerce learned today through consular advices. High ocean freight rates have attracted vessels formerly engaged in the coal trade and no coal is going to the port. Bituminous coal is selling in Hong Kong at $13 a ton.

PROPOSED TO CHANGE CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT

Washington, May 1.—Suggestions for changes in the corrupt practices act, including one to limit expenditures in a presidential campaign by a national committee to $250,000, were laid before President Wilson today by Senator Owen and Representative Rucker. Senator Owen favored such limitation, but Representative Rucker preferred that state expenditures be limited to sums raised therein, without a fixed total for the whole country. He said sums spent personally by presidential candidates should be put at $25,000 or $50,000. The president did not pass on the suggestions, but will confer again on the subject.

Supreme Court to Recess.

Washington, May 1.—The supreme court announced today a recess from May 8 to May 22.

It's perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate, so let them eat anything afterwards.

GERMANS CHARGE IN DENSE MASSES AT DEAD MAN'S HILL

But They Are Mowed Down by the Fire of the French Guns, According to Paris Reports.

London, May 1.—The repulse by the French of powerful German attacks around Dead Man's Hill and of counter attacks to the north of Cumieres has again been followed by a heavy German bombardment of these sectors and a continuation of the shelling of Cote du Poivre and Douaumont, northeast of the fortress. No fresh infantry attacks have been launched by the Germans.

In sapping operations in the Argonne forest the French were enabled by the explosion of a mine to take a portion of a crater.

Nothing of importance has occurred along the northern section of the front in Russia, according to Berlin, but in the south the Austro-Hungarians have been forced to withdraw before a counter attack by the Russians from trenches north of Mlynov, which they had previously captured.

The usual bombardments are in progress on the Austro-Italian front. Gorizia has again come under the heavy fire of the Italians. In the Adamello zone the Italians are on the offensive against the Austrians at Topeto pass.

Paris reports that on the Greek frontier there have been frequent, but unimportant, skirmishes between entente allied and German-Bulgarian forces, whose lines are less than two-thirds of a mile apart at certain points.

Two British war craft, the armed yacht Aegusa and the mine sweeper Nasturtium, have been sent to the bottom in the Mediterranean by mines.

FRENCH REPULSE GERMAN ATTACKS.

Paris, May 1.—The official communication issued by the war office tonight reads:

"In Belgium our artillery shattered German trenches in front of Steenstraete and Boesinghe.

"In the Argonne mine fighting occurred at La Fille Morte. We occupied the southern edge of the crater caused by the explosion of one of our mines. Our fire was concentrated on the enemy organizations at Les Courtes Chaussees and the Cheppy wood.

"In the region of Verdun there was a very spirited bombardment of our positions on the left bank of the Meuse. On the right bank artillery activity was concentrated on the sectors of Coye du Poivre and Douaumont.

"Aviation: During the month of April our battle aerial corps displayed much activity, particularly in the region of Verdun, obtaining appreciable results in the course of numerous aerial struggles, where they kept an incontestable advantage. Our pilots succeeded in bringing down thirty-one enemy aeroplanes. Nine of these fell within our lines and twenty-two were seen by our observers to fall in flames within the German lines, where they were completely abandoned.

"During the same period six French aeroplanes have been worsted in combats and fell within the German lines.

"The Belgian official communication reads: 'There has been artillery activity on both sides along the whole front, particularly in the direction of Dixmude and the south sector.'

"Army of the east: Along the Greek frontier nothing has been reported from April 15 to 30 except skirmishes, which were without importance, but were of more frequent occurrence by reason of the proximity of the allied troops and the German-Bulgarian forces, which are less than a kilometer from each other in certain places."

The French report issued in the afternoon says:

"After a violent bombardment yesterday west of the River Meuse the enemy, at the end of the day, delivered a powerful attack in dense formation upon the trenches captured by us north of Dead Man's Hill. Our curtain of fire, together with the fire of our machine guns, caused enormous losses to the enemy, and all the assaults of the Germans were broken.

"North of Cumieres two German counter attacks delivered at about the same hour of the day upon the trench captured by us yesterday also were repulsed. In the course of the third endeavor at this point the enemy, who had been successful in gaining a footing in our lines, found it impossible to maintain his positions, and was at once driven back with heavy losses.

"There has been a violent and continued bombardment of Hill No. 304, and also in the region of Vaux. The night passed quietly in the Woevre district.

"During the night of April 29-30 French aeroplane squadrons threw down numerous projectiles on the railroad station and the supply and munitions station at Sebastopol, south of Thiaucourt; on the railroad line at Etain; on certain bivouacks near Sincourt, and on the railway stations at Apremont, Grand Pre, Challerange and Vouziere.

"During these operations it was noticed that numerous fires broke out and a number of explosions were effected on the railroads.

GERMANS REPORT VIOLENT FIGHTING.

Berlin, May 1.—(Via Wireless.)—An official announcement today reads:

"Western Front: The situation generally is unchanged. Near Dead Man's Hill (Verdun front) violent fighting continued yesterday.

"German aerial squadrons conducted extensive bombardments of the enemy's encampment and magazines west of Verdun.

"A French bi-plane was shot down in an aerial fight east of Royon. The occupants of the machine were dead.

"Eastern and Balkan fronts: Nothing important has occurred."

RUSSIANS REGAIN LOST POSITIONS.

Berlin, May 1.—(By Wireless.)—The Russians have regained by a counter attack positions north of Mlynov which they had lost to the Austrians, it was announced in the Austro-Hungarian headquarters statement of April 30, received here from Vienna. More than 200 prisoners were taken by the Austrian forces in the engagement April 28 when the Russian lines were penetrated. The statement says:

"North of Mlynov, Austro-Hungarian detachments have been withdrawn into the face of attacks by superior Russian forces from the Russian advanced positions which they had captured on April 28. The number of prisoners reported yesterday was increased to more than 200.

"On the Italian front there have been the usual artillery engagements at several places. Gorizia was again shelled for a time.

"Austro-Hungarian airmen dropped bombs on the barracks and camps near Villa Vicentina. All these aeroplanes returned unharmed after a successful aerial battle. An Austro-Hungarian airman fought near Sandanile-del-Friuli against four hostile machines and forced one of them to descend in precipitate flight.

"Italian detachments, advancing from Dosson di Genova, attacked an Austro-Hungarian position at Topeto pass in the Adamello district.

"The Italian press report of April 28 contains the absolutely invented assertion that the Austro-Hungarian infantry increasingly uses explosive bullets. It is stated that Italian acts against the law of nations such as the use of explosive bullets, gas grenades, the shelling of establishments such as churches, monasteries, etc., which are distinctly marked as such, are too numerous to be mentioned."

GAIN MADE BY ITALIANS.

Rome, May 1.—(Via London.)—The official communication issued today says:

"On the Garda-Brenta front there has been a more intense artillery activity in the mountainous zone north of Loppio. Our artillery, replying to the incendiary shell fire of the enemy south of Mori, destroyed the village of Pannone and blew up an enemy ammunition depot in the Gresta valley.

"On the upper Avisio our infantry detachments, overcoming the difficulties of ground and the determined resistance of the enemy, carried a strong position 3,000 metres above sea level. We captured 52 prisoners, two machine guns and a quantity of arms and munitions.

"On the Isonzo front there has been an intermittent artillery bombardment. On the northern slopes of Montesan Michele Saturday night the enemy essayed an attack, but was promptly repulsed.

"Sunday night one of our airships, despite heavy clouds and stormy weather, reached the Lagarina valley and bombarded the railway from Calliano to the Trent railway station. At Trent fires broke out. The airship returned safely, although subjected to a heavy artillery fire."

GERMANS STOPPED BY RUSSIAN FIRE.

Petrograd, May 1.—(Via London.)—The following official communication was issued today:

"In the region of Poulkarn, southeast of Riga, we successfully cannonaded an enemy battery. German artillery bombarded the region, station and bridgehead at Ikskull.

"In one sector of the Dvinsk positions our artillery caused an outbreak of fire in the enemy's trenches. Southwest of Lake Narocz the Germans attempted to debouch from their trenches. They were met by our fire and compelled to give up their attempt and return to their positions.

"Southeast of the Olyka station on the Rovno-Kovel railway the enemy in three successive attacks tried to surround the village of Khromiakovo, but every time was repulsed by our artillery and machine gun fire.

"Caucasus frontier: In the direction of Diarbekr our Cossacks energetically repulsed the Turks toward the west. In the direction of Bagd we repulsed toward the west an important enemy detachment, capturing a portion of its artillery and numerous caissons."

MEXICANS GLOOMY BECAUSE OF STAY OF U. S. SOLDIERS

the only course he could take would be to accept the plan of the United States to co-operate in the complete dispersal of the Villista bands.

It was argued that the de facto government could not afford a break with the United States, whose recognition had given it stability. Any open disagreement must result in intervention, it was asserted.

The American plan for co-operation would not entail any particular hardship on the de facto government, it was pointed out, since the zone of American occupation could be limited to extreme northern Mexico and since the withdrawal could be reached at a period not very far distant.

There was a disposition to attach significance to the fact that Secretary Baker's instructions referred only to the Washington government's intention not to agree on "immediate" withdrawal. This did not indicate, it was asserted, any objection to withdrawal after a reasonable period.

Danger of Outbreaks.

Mexican officials said today that they were anxious to have the conference expedited, as every additional day of uncertainty increased the danger of outbreaks south of the border.

Little credence was attached to reports that General Obregon might end the conference unless some agreement soon was reached.

Reliable reports were received today indicating that the American army is preparing for at least a temporary stay on Mexican soil. These said that the Sixth, Sixteenth and Seventeenth infantry regiments, formerly at Casas Grandes and Colonia Dublan, now are at Namiquipa, General Pershing's base, and that the Twenty-fourth is guarding the line of communication from Columbus.

The Thirteenth and Eleventh cavalry regiments and part of the Tenth and Seventh also were reported at Namiquipa with the Sixth on its way to that point.

With this large force and with the customary defense preparations it was indicated that General Pershing was ready for any eventuality.

Only a few scattered columns of the expeditionary force are reported south of Namiquipa. The great bulk of General Pershing's men is now well within 200 miles of the border.

IMPORTANT EVENTS SEEM TO IMPEND.

Columbus, N. M., May 1.—Military authorities here appeared to believe tonight that important events in the Mexican situation are impending. Anxiety was manifest, although no definite reason was offered. Soldiers were kept close to the reservation in readiness for any move warranted by developments. Four infantry companies received marching orders today and it is believed they will get under way tomorrow.

It is known that General Pershing is closely in touch with the conferences in El Paso and Juarez and is laying his plans accordingly. What was said to be an important message from El Paso was transmitted to him today but no inkling of its contents was given out.

From military headquarters came the statement that "there have been no new developments in the field and all operations are at a standstill pending the result of the conferences."

A report that a detachment under Colonel James B. Erwin had been engaged by Mexicans was denied.

Four new aeroplanes arrived today. They are high powered tractor biplanes capable of flying at an elevation, it was said, of 13,000 feet and a speed of 100 miles an hour.

An unofficial report reaching here today placed Villa with a small band of chosen followers near the Sonora border in the vicinity of Topago on the Rio Chipinas and about 75 miles southwest of Guerrero. The report, however, was vague and was given consideration only as a rumor.

VILLA BANDS BEING CHASED.

Field Headquarters, Namiquipa, Chihuahua, May 1.—(By Radio to Columbus, N. M.)—Brigadier General Pershing, commanding the expeditionary troops, is planning for every possible future development. Every report of the advanced cavalary columns and those reaching here from the border are studied thoroughly in an attempt to obtain a proper perspective.

The scattered bands of Villa followers are being given no rest. Columns of cavalry are riding mercilessly on the trails of the scattered bands of Villa followers, who, in groups of two or three or singly, are making their way far into the mountain wilderness in attempt to escape the Americans.

The new motor ambulances which recently reached field headquarters are being given their first test in active service, carrying the wounded from Parral and Tomochic to the field hospital at Colonia Dublan.

FLASHLIGHT USED TO TRAP SNIPERS.

Columbus, N. M., May 1.—A story of an ingenuous plan employed by an American truck officer to rid the path of the motor supply trains on their way to the Mexican front of some of the snipers that have ben harassing them recently was brought here today.

"We had been sniped at several times from the same point in the rock canyon between El Valle and Namiquipa," a truck man said.

"On our last trip we received information that the Mexicans again were preparing to shoot at us that night. Consequently when we were within a few miles of the place the train was stopped and our lights were hooded. The officers in charge on the train took a small detachment and went ahead to a point opposite where the Mexicans were believed to be. He fixed a flashlight on a rock a hundred yards from his soldiers and threw its beam in the direction of the snipers. The Mexicans immediately fired a volley at the light, disclosing their whereabouts to the awaiting Americans. In returning the fire the Americans killed one Mexican, but the others, possibly three or four men, escaped.

AMERICAN MUNITIONS POURING INTO EUROPE

Washington, May 1.—Europe's purchases of war materials in the United States totaled three hundred and forty million dollars at the end of the first twenty months of war. Figures assembled today in the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce show the heaviest month was March last, when more than fifty million dollars' worth of munitions left American ports.

Shipments of high explosive shells and shrapnel are crossing the Atlantic now at the rate of a million dollars' worth daily and vessels are carrying half a million dollars' worth of powder a day. Firearms and cartridges valued at more than five millions went to Europe during March.

SENATE IS DEBATING RURAL CREDITS MEASURE

Washington, May 1.—With a protest against the creation of new bureaus to attract young people to the government service, where he said many able men had resigned themselves to a dreary existence instead of winning success in independent effort, Senator Smoot vainly urged the senate today to amend the Hollis rural credits bill so as to reduce the members of the proposed farm loan board from five to three. He was more successful with another amendment to reduce the salaries of the members of the board from $10,000 to $7,500. Sitting as a committee of the whole, the senate adopted the latter proposed by a vote of 26 to 25, Senators Beckham and Kern joining the republicans in supporting it.

Senator Hollis gave notice that he would ask for a separate vote on the amendments when the bill reached the senate from the committee of the whole.

Crude Oil to $4 a Barrel

The growing demand for oil makes $4.00 crude probable. The real opportunities of America are in the Middle West Oil Fields. Great financiers are making millions by consolidating oil properties and through rich bankers floating new securities, backed by oil properties. These big men know that oil will double in value if war comes and likewise will greatly advance to help build after peace is secured.

The Uncle Sam Oil Company is the pioneer independent. It built the first three independent refineries in Kansas and Oklahoma.

It has capable men at the head of its different departments, and is gaining wealth every week. It is owned by over eighteen thousand stockholders, representing every congressional district in the Union. It is the real people's company, that in time is sure to put its red, white, and blue tank wagons and auto trucks to delivering Uncle Sam Oil in at least thirty states.

This Company is established. It has demonstrated its ability to protect itself from the treachery and intrigue of the Oil Monopoly gang, having fought its way through persecution to prosperity, and now desires to put in operation the balance of 40 to 50 drills and keep them going until its production is at least ten thousand barrels per day.

The oil fields of Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico and Texas have hardly been scratched.

The future of a powerful organization in this great district—that is now able to maintain forty to fifty drills in continuous operation—will certainly mean a gain on this stock of from 10 to 100 times.

Stock that you can secure under the sacrifice offer herein will certainly in a few years pay more in dividends yearly than you need now remit to own it. The Uncle Sam Oil Company now has under headway nineteen (19) different wells.

We have one property in the Red Fork district within three miles of our Tulsa, Oklahoma, Refinery that gives great promise of being the richest lease in that territory and will not surprise our field men if it produces over Two Million Dollars of oil when developed during the next eighteen months. There are three producing sands in this district and besides a deep production possible. The Uncle Sam Oil Company controls about fourteen hundred acres in this Red Fork district. Two new wells started natural at about two hundred fifty barrels per day. We will have in five more new wells on this property within four to fifteen days. We have at least two hundred locations in the deep and shallow sands on this one property. Our chances are good to have from 800 to 2000 barrels daily of high grade oil in this district within a few weeks.

The pipeline of The Uncle Sam Oil Company is completed and in operation for over 165 miles, connecting the larger percentage of its oil producing property.

We will soon have one hundred (150) fifty producing wells and room left on practically proven grounds for 400 to 500 additional producers.

This oil from this rich new Red Fork pool that should soon reach from 800 to 2000 barrels per day is about one-fourth gasoline. This splendid lease is connected with two of our refineries in two states. Surrounding these refineries are The Uncle Sam marketing stations, where our own auto trucks and tank wagons can deliver ten thousand barrels per day direct to the people.

When you join The Uncle Sam Oil Company you make your remittance count for principle as well as financial gain.

The Oil Monopoly has lately, through friendly bankers, grabbed nearly complete control of practically all other refineries, leaving a clear field for this great, growing independent, that for over ten years has maintained the first independent, direct-to-the-people marketing stations.

Even though the prices of refined oils are from 15 to 25 per cent cheaper to the people in the states where our marketing stations are located, we can now secure, when refined at small expense at our refineries, about $2.46 to $2.60 per barrel.

On this basis our combined daily production should soon reach ($5,000) five thousand dollars per day, and it may reach double that sum in 90 to 120 days.

The Uncle Sam Oil Company controls a total of about (20,000) twenty thousand acres of lands and leases in the real oil belt. It is continually offered new development propositions. The land owners of the Middle West know that The Uncle Sam Oil Company has the only independent market—and that we want more production and that we will not "crook" a test hole—but if we find a new field will at once develop it—and under such circumstances a lot of land owners refuse to turn their leases to speculators sneaking for the Trust, but hold for The Uncle Sam Oil Company, which is a household word among independent farmers in the oil belt states.

This Company has work started on three deep tests in the Cushing field—near the center of the township, that developed a reported fourteen thousand barrel well a few weeks ago.

One of these wells is now 3272 feet and will be drilled to 2800 feet. We have just proved up in two new test wells from 38 to 45 feet of rich Layton Oil sand on our Cushing property.

In rich Range Seven, which has produced more high grade oil gushers than any other district in the world—The Uncle Sam Oil Company has work under headway on twelve deep wells, through the heart of about four thousand acres of its perpetual oil and gas leases.

The knockers can knock, and the henchmen in the pay of the Big Bunch of Rich Schemers can insinuate and attempt to belittle The Uncle Sam Oil Company, but any investor who doubts our word can come and go over the properties and see for himself.

We may have a hundred million barrels of oil in our present lands and leases. Your remittance combined with a hundred more will drill a test on one of our many properties and may open a rich pool that will pour out millions. We offer you this stock now on a capitalization basis of Two Million Four Hundred Thousand Dollars, while I am confident the present stockholders would not approve a cash sale of our total property at less than Ten Million Dollars. Our largest stockholders are in Kansas and Oklahoma, near our properties.

We have several different properties that by a little good luck can produce more oil than all our stock will total at the sacrifice offer herein to you. The authorized issue of stock of The Uncle Sam Oil Company is Four Hundred Million Shares. The loyal stockholders own their stock at less than four mills per share. Our properties by new development and advances in prices of oil have reasonably increased at least ten times in value—but we can place new capital at big advantage and will let you have stock at the sacrifice offer of six mills per share. The real book value, I believe, is now about twice that sum, and wells now drilling may increase it several times more.

If you will remit quickly, you will secure the advantage of a dividend allotment which is a conditional stock dividend.

The larger your first remittance the greater will be your allotment privilege.

The Uncle Sam Oil Company is controlled by a Board of Twenty-one Directors—all of whom are large stockholders. The Company is on a check and voucher system. Every dollar is deposited the same day it is received in the name of the Company and paid out only on the legitimate claims by Company check, signed by four different officers.

Weekly development reports are sent to stockholders keeping them informed in detail.

A big oil stock company can be operated just as honestly as any other business concern. We want only red-blooded citizens as stockholders who will stand by the Company in its big effort for splendid success.

If you will heed the truth when you read it forward your remittance for from $15.00 to $1,500.00, and join a real winner before this stock is all sold or greatly advanced, or inclose four cents in stamps and late reports and further particulars will at once be sent to you.

Remember, some of our drills will be digging at the cap rock of production while you read this notice, which will reach abut Twenty Million readers. The future will prove that the time to secure this stock is right now.

As part of the consideration the Company reserves the right to approve or reject any subscription to, or transfer of its stock. The stock is non-assessable. Subject to prior sale, remittances will be accepted on the following basis:

SACRIFICE OFFER.

2,500	Shares	$ 15.00
5,000	Shares	30.00
10,000	Shares	60.00
100,000	Shares	600.00
250,000	Shares	1,500.00

Put an X opposite the stock you want and make all remittances payable to The Uncle Sam Oil Company, by check, draft or money order.

Write your name and address plainly.

It is taking advantage of just such an opportunity as this that distinguishes the smart, thrifty housekeeper from the indifferent one.

FIREPROOF ROOFS URGED IN ATLANTA

Ordinance Designed to Insure Greater Degree of Protection From Flames, Introduced in Council.

An ordinance by Councilman Fred Woodall providing for fireproof roofing on all buildings erected within the city limits of Atlanta excepting dwellings and similar buildings, was introduced at Monday's meeting of the general council and referred to the fire committee for further consideration.

The ordinance sets forth that all buildings in the city limits except dwellings, frame buildings, buildings not exceeding two stories in height or thirty feet and twenty-five hundred square feet in area, providing the same are not used for factories, warehouses or mercantile purposes, shall have roofs of tile, brick, slate, tin, iron, asbestos or built up felt roofing with gravel or slag surface, which shall rank as class A or class B under the test specifications of the national board of fire underwriters.

The roofing shall be of such material as not to rank lower than class F under the test specifications of the underwriters.

It further provides that a layer of felt at least 1-16 of an inch thick shall be placed between the metal roofing and the supporting woodwork. The wooden plank and sheathing of roofs shall not, in any case, be extended across side or party walls.

The ordinance does not prohibit the repair of wooden shingle roofs now existing, providing the building is not increased in height and provided further than repairing shall not be so extensive as to amount to a renewal of the roof.

The ordinance is to become effective January 1, 1917.

BAKERS MEET IN MACON

Delegation of Ten Goes From Atlanta.

Macon, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Two hundred members of the Southeastern Master Bakers' association are in the city tonight, and three hundred others are en route here for the formal opening of their three days' convention tomorrow.

This is the second annual convention the bakers have held, and from present indication, it will be an event long to be remembered.

Two prominent visitors who will arrive in the morning are J. Burns, of Omaha, Neb., president of the National association, and J. M. Bell, of Chicago, national secretary.

Today a delegation of eighteen bakers from Florida and ten from Atlanta arrived. President E. A. Geilfuss, of Spartanburg, S. C., has been here for a couple of days assisting in arranging for the entertainment of the visitors. The exhibit building on Cherry street was thrown open today, sixteen exhibits of bakers' appliances being shown with hourly demonstrations.

FIVE MEN ARE ARRESTED AFTER SMALL SIZED RIOT

Five young white men were fined $5.75 each and held to the state court under bonds of $100 each by Recorder Johnson in police matinee Monday afternoon following their arrest Sunday, charged with interfering with an officer and with trying to start a miniature riot on the lower end of Decatur street.

A. B. Hopper, a deputy sheriff of Manchester, Ga., had come to Atlanta Saturday to arrest a man by the name of C. L. Luther, for whom he had a warrant.

He stated that he had gone to a drug store on the lower end of Decatur street and placed his man under arrest, after which the five men jumped on him and tried to beat him up, helping his prisoner to escape.

As evidence, Hopper exhibited two black eyes and other signs that he had been in some kind of a mix-up.

Detectives Hamby and Vickery, headed by Detective Sergeant Burnett, placed the five under arrest, who gave their names as follows: Jack Sills, Frank Stokes, Jack Ward, John Couch and John Fitch.

BOUND OVER ON CHARGE OF LARCENY AFTER TRUST

Charged with larceny after trust and with carrying concealed weapons, Clyde McEwing, a young white man, giving his address as 217 Means street, was held to the grand jury under two $100 bonds in police matinee Monday afternoon. He was arrested Sunday by Officer Eugene Coker.

J. J. Skelton, proprietor of the J. J. Skelton & Sons furniture store, 921 Marietta street, appeared in court testifying that McEwing had collected money for the furniture store to the sum of $20 which he had never turned in.

McEwing admitted his guilt, requesting the judge to deal with him lightly.

Officer Coker then stated that when arrested the young man was carrying a loaded revolver, and the judge bound him over on the two counts.

PLAN MALARIA SURVEY FOR SUMTER COUNTY

Americus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The only county in Georgia to secure a malaria survey by the public health bureau of the United States government is Sumter. This announcement comes from Congressman Charles R. Crisp, of the third district, who was instrumental in securing the survey.

According to Surgeon General Rupert Blue, of the federal government, in notifying Congressman Crisp, the survey will be made in each of the southern states some time during the summer. The federal officers will confer with the local health authorities and give advise as to anti-malaria measures. A number of public addresses will be given at the time, with proper arrangements to be made by the local authorities.

BUSY TIME STARTS FOR FOR BERRY GROWERS

Lyerly, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Although a small per cent of the strawberry crop was shipped last week, this week will be the busy time with the strawberry growers of this section. While there is not half the acreage in berries as there was several years ago, there are a number of fine farms that will produce thousands of dollars' worth of berries this year and the crop is just beginning to move. The berries are bringing a very fancy price and there is a good demand for the fruit.

There is a large crop of cherries, peaches, pears and a few apples, but the majority of the apples were killed by a freeze while the fruit was young.

RECEIVERS APPOINTED FOR JIM SMITH ESTATE

Judge Speer Names J. R. White, C. H. Phinizy, R. L. Moss and W. P. Carpenter.

Macon, Ga, May 1—(Special)—Receivers for the estate of the late James M. Smith, the Oglethorpe county millionaire, were named by Judge Emory Speer in the United States district court, they being John R. White, president of the National Bank of Athens; Charles H. Phinizy, of Athens, a cotton factor; Rufus L. Moss, of Athens, a manufacturer, and W. P. Carpenter, of Atlanta. Mr. White is designated at the chairman.

O. A. Park, a well-known Macon lawyer, is named chief counsel for the receivers, with Roland Ellis, of Macon, and W. P. Carpenter, of Atlanta, as associate counsel for the receivers.

The appointment of the receivers follows a hearing which lasted for four weeks, the case being taken from the jurisdiction of the state courts on petition of Louisiana claimants to the estate, who brought charges of fraud against the temporary administrators and further charged that the temporary administrators and the Zadoc Smith claimants to the estate were in collusion to gain the entire estate for the one faction.

The receivers appointed by Judge Speer today are ordered to take charge of all the assets of the estate at once and to manage the same until the termination of the issues now before the United States district court.

As chairman, Receiver White is authorized to take special charge of the funds and cash of the estate and deposit the same to the credit of the receivers and retain the stocks and bonds now deposited in his bank in the names of persons assuming to be temporary administrators and the American Surety company, on the bond of the alleged administrators. Charles H. Phinizy and Rufus L. Moss are to have special charge of the mercantile, farming and landed interests of the estate and all personal property appurtent thereto, but they are to always confer with the other receivers.

Under the order, the compensation of O. A. Park and Roland Ellis, attorneys for the receivers, is to be fixed by the court.

In addition to the order naming the receivers, Judge Speer also handed down another order formally assuming jurisdiction in the case.

W. P. Thomas Re-elected.

Not an Experiment

¶ The new Michelin Universal Tread was not thought out over night. There is more merit to it than novelty. It is the result of four years' careful development, backed up by eighty-four years' experience in handling rubber, which is the proud boast of the Michelin company.

¶ The new Universal Tread casing as we see it today has been perfected at Michelin's expense, and not at the expense of the public. Every stage of its development has been under the constant supervision of factory experts who conducted comparative tests with tires of other makes. In this way the new casing was improved from time to time, until it surpassed all others and eventually reached its final shape.

TWO ATLANTA FIRMS HAVE SOLD 120,288 BOTTLES OF TANLAC

Unprecedented Demand for Celebrated Medicine Continues Unabated, and Thousands Are Being Benefited by Its Use.

Tanlac was first introduced in Atlanta on the 17th day of last September, or just a little over seven months ago. Since that time two Atlanta firms, one retailer and one jobber, have sold a combined total of One Hundred and Twenty Thousand Two Hundred and Eighty-eight (120,288) Bottles. The firms referred to are the Jacobs Pharmacy Company, the exclusive retailers for Atlanta, and the Lamar & Rankin Drug Company, who are the exclusive jobbing distributors of Tanlac for this immediate territory.

Of this amount the Jacobs Pharmacy Company has sold through their eleven Atlanta stores at retail, direct to consumers, the astonishing total of forty-six thousand (46,000) bottles, which is an average of almost one bottle for every adult inhabitant of the city, and the Lamar & Rankin Drug Company have sold the unprecedented total of seventy-four thousand (74,000) bottles to nearby towns throughout North Georgia.

What is true of Atlanta is also true of other Southern cities, where the demand has been correspondingly large, and if the present rate continues the southern states alone will require from one and a quarter to one and one-half million bottles this year. Over 100,000 bottles have reached the public through the Nashville retailers and jobbers. Birmingham has sold approximately 90,000 bottles since last August, and Knoxville and Chattanooga have sold nearly 100,000 bottles between them. Macon, Montgomery and Jacksonville are also selling Tanlac at a phenomenal rate, and are averaging from 10,000 to 15,000 bottles per month each. At Memphis, Tenn., where the Tanlac agency was recently established, an entire carload, 12,000 bottles, was sold in the first three weeks.

All of these goods have been billed through the Atlanta office, and very few people in Atlanta realize the magnitude to which this business has grown. The fact that approximately a half million bottles have been sold and distributed through the Atlanta office alone since December 1 is a big business item which will attract widespread interest throughout the South for nothing like it has ever happened before! It breaks all records!

"These enormous sales," said Mr. G. F. Willis, southern distributor of Tanlac, "mean but one thing, and that is merit. It simply means that Tanlac is making good, and that the people are buying it simply because they are being benefited by its use. I feel absolutely safe in saying that no other medicine has ever accomplished such remarkable results or has ever sprung into such immediate favor and widespread popularity, and it is now unquestionably the most widely-talked-of medicine in the world today.

"Tanlac is extensively advertised, it is true, but such a large and rapidly-growing demand could not be brought about by advertising alone, for unless the people did not feel that they were getting value received for their money they would have found it out long ago. Tanlac is producing these results," he continued, "and that is why nothing on earth could keep it out of the homes of the people.

"It is not only the most widely-talked-of medicine in the world today, but in my opinion it is the best and most efficient. This fact has been conclusively and convincingly proven by the thousands upon thousands of unqualified indorsements from well-known men and women from all parts of the South, to say nothing of the indorsements from the hundreds of reputable dealers who have stated that they have never sold anything to equal it as a seller or give such satisfactory results.

"Not a day or week passes that does not bring hundreds of statements from the people concerning the good this medicine is doing and reciting the circumstances of remarkable cases that would convince the most skeptical. These alone are sufficient to explain the phenomenal demand for Tanlac, but the above figures are more, and they speak convincingly and eloquently of the great good Mr. Cooper's medicine has done."—(adv.)

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR HIGHWAYMAN

Vismore Released After Inquest Held Over Body of Eugene Gaines — Frank Gaines Still Held by Police

A coroner's jury, empaneled Monday afternoon by Coroner Paul Donehoo, returned the verdict, "Death caused by a gunshot wound, inflicted by parties unknown," following a two-hour session over the body of Eugene Gaines, 32-years-old resident of 14 Markham street, who was found dead in front of 202 Courtland street early Sunday morning.

As a result of the jury's investigations, Charles Vismore, the proprietor of the Ivy Soda company, who was held up in front of that number, and who shot at one of the highwaymen, who was thought to have been Gaines, was freed.

The last step in the case, according to detectives, will be the arrest of the third member of the trio, who was said to have made his escape following the shooting. The arrest was expected hourly at headquarters Monday night.

Brother Is Still Held.

F. G. Gaines, 21-year-old brother of the slain man, is still being held at police headquarters, under the blanket charge of "suspicion." Officers working the case claim that they will be able to substantiate their theory that he was his brother's accomplice when the case comes to trial.

Gaines denies any connection with the affair, stating that he was at his home in bed at the time the shooting took place Sunday morning.

Early Monday Annie Mayo, 18-year-old girl, resident of the Palace hotel, was taken in custody by Call Officer G. C. Fain. She was said to have been a close friend of Eugene Gaines, but later in the day was released when detectives failed to secure any information of importance from her.

The coroner's inquest was attended by a large crowd of people, by relatives of Gaines and by his wife, who, before her marriage was Miss Etta Lawson.

L. W. Smith, G. B. Davis and Earle Lawson, the latter a brotherin-law of Gaines were the only witnesses introduced outside of Vismore, who told his story of the happenings on Courtland street Sunday morning.

The testimony of Smith and Davis was to the effect that they had heard the shooting while they were on Courtland street at about that time and had run down to see what was the matter.

Saw Party of Men.

Smith testified that he saw a party of men near the corner of Ellis and Courtland streets and stated that it looked as if someone had been held up.

Lawson stated to the jury that he had been with the Gaines brothers several times when they had approached him significantly making suggestions to him which would lead him to believe that they were "up to something."

"Several times they have told me that it was no use to work if I could get money other ways," stated Lawson.

The story of Vismore was that he had closed up his place of business shortly before 1 o'clock, taking $60 from the cash register, the proceeds of his day's sales, and starting home.

He further stated that for protection he was in the habit of carrying a revolver on Saturday nights. He slipped that in his pocket as usual before leaving his store.

"I walked down Courtland street," began Vismore, "and near the corner of Ellis and Courtland streets I saw that there was two men following me. I crossed the street to get away from them and they crossed right behind me.

"About that time I noticed another man coming up the street in front of me and as I started to cross back across the street the two men behind grabbed me, hitting me in the back of the head and telling me to hold up my hands.

Shot Three Times.

"Then the man from in front ran up and pulled my hat down over my eyes. When he did that I had pulled my gun from my pocket and I shot three times. Two more shots were fired and then the three men ran. I went on down the street and then home. They did not get my money and I did not know that anybody had been shot."

A coincidence in the case was that at the time the shooting took place, local detectives looking for the Gaines brothers, having communications from Knoxville, Tenn., relative to their arrest on charges of highway robbery.

A statement by Mrs. Eugene Gaines, that her husband had married her under the name of Frank Morgan, was another development in the case Monday.

According to Sergeant George C. Bullard and Assistant Chief of Police E. L. Jett, as well as Captain A. L. Poole, Mrs. Gaines had visited them several times during the past few years, telling them that her husband was not living right and also that she was afraid he would get into trouble.

S. H. Gaines, father of the Gaines boys, stated that Eugene had been a good boy and had helped him in his work of painting. He further corroborated the statements of Frank Gaines, that the latter had been at home in bed at the time his brother was killed.

The funeral of Gaines will take place at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning from the chapel of Harry G. Poole. The body will be taken to Tilton, Ga., for interment.

Decision Holding Bacon Author of Shakespeare To Be at Once Vacated

Chicago, May 1.—The circuit court decision which upheld the claims that Francis Bacon wrote the plays and other works attributed to William Shakespeare will be vacated, it was announced today after a meeting of judges of the tribunal.

The decision was given by Judge Tuthill in a suit brought by William Selig, a motion picture magnate, to restrain Colonel George Fabyan and others from circulating a series of pamphlets upholding the claims of the Bacon sympathizers.

The point had been raised that Judge Tuthill had no right to hear the case, inasmuch as it was in chancery and he was working on the law side.

Judge Jesse Baldwin, a member of the executive committee of the court, said he had instituted the inquiry into the decision after his attention had been called to the fact that apparent collusion existed between the parties to the suit.

TWO RAIDS ARE MADE UNDER NEW "DRY" LAW

Charged with having alcoholic liquors illegally in their possession, John W. Phillips, 153 Whitehall street; T. J. Taylor and Mrs. C. Walton, both of the Folsom hotel, were arrested yesterday and their cases, the first to be tried under the new liquor law, will be heard by Recorder Johnson at police matinee at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Detectives Cowan and Gillespie raided Phillips' quarters at 153 Whitehall street last night and confiscated two cases and four demijohns of whisky.

Taylor and Mrs. Walton were arrested by Detectives Rosser and Gorman. The couple gave their ages as 43 and 32, respectively, and in the rooms they occupied at the Folsom hotel the officers found sixty-three half-pint flasks of whisky. Taylor gave bond in the sum of $500 for his appearance in court and Mrs. Walton's bond was fixed at $200, which was deposited with the police.

DEWEY CELEBRATES MANILA ANNIVERSARY

Washington, May 1.—Admiral Dewey today is celebrating the eighteenth anniversary of the battle of Manila bay. No plans had been made for any special celebration so far as the hero of the day personally was concerned. As president of the navy general board, Admiral Dewey was at his desk as usual today giving personal attention to the duties of his office.

A short drive, followed by a family dinner and early retirement was to round out the day.

Admiral Dewey, who is 79 years of age, is in his usual good health.

Secretary Daniels and officers of his advisory council made their annual pilgrimage to Admiral Dewey's office and Mr. Daniels expressed his good wishes.

"For all time," said the secretary, "history will teach that Dewey, the sailor, was equaled only by Dewey, the statesman. You recognized the capacity of the Filipinos, appreciated their love of liberty, but you were careful to enter into no alliances that could embarrass the American government in its future policy.

"Your fellow workers in the upbuilding of a stronger navy wish you many more years of usefulness in the noble profession you adorn."

THREE NEGROES HELD FOR DEATH OF TARPLEY

Dublin, Ga., May 1—(Special.)—Three negroes, Coot Minton, Bob McArthur and Starling Wiley are now held in Laurens county jail charged with the murder of T. M. Tarpley at his store just outside the city Saturday night. Levi Minton, a son of Coot Minton, confessed to the officers that his father and the two other negroes committed the crime. He is now held as a witness.

The grand jury will take the matter up Tuesday, and it is probable that the three negroes will be tried at this term of court, as the criminal division of Laurens superior court is in session this week. There has been no disorder.

The real cause was the collapse in 1912-13 of a boom which followed several years of prosperity characterized by speculation and abnormal growth of cities and towns. This year's prospects are better.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lake entertained at dinner Sunday evening at Druid Hills Golf club for Mrs. Hays.

TANNER-GRAY.

Willacoochee, Ga., May 1.—(Special.) A marriage of much interest was that of Mr. Arthur Gray to Miss Nora Tanner, solemnized yesterday afternoon at the home of Rev. Dan Roberts. AUTOMOBILE WRECK IS CAUSED BY A BEE

Dublin, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Stevens and Sam Bashinski, of this place, left Macon for Dublin yesterday in Mr. Stevens' car, a negro chauffeur driving. About 15 miles out of Macon, a bee began to persistently buzz around the negro's head, and in desperation he turned loose the steering wheel for a second in order to fight off the bee. This caused him to lose control of the car, which crashed into a bank by the roadside, smashing a front wheel and spilling the occupants over the road, none of them being seriously injured, however.

The bee escaped.

Funeral of J. W. Parker.

Funeral services over the body of J. W. Parker, assistant superintendent of the federal prison farm, who died at the Grady hospital Sunday morning, from the effects of carbolic acid which he had taken by mistake, will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church, interment following at Philadelphia cemetery.

Mr. Parker drank carbolic acid, mistaking it for cough medicine.

He is survived by his wife, four sons, O. J., H. B. and W. O., of Atlanta, and J. M. Parker, of Dallas, Texas, and three daughters, Mrs. W. W. Holland, Mrs. George Bray and Mrs. S. W. Castles, all of Atlanta.

Mr. Parker was 67 years of age and a long resident of Atlanta. He was a devout member of the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church and was to be ordained there as an elder Sunday.

Triplets to Americus.

Americus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—There's no race suicide in Sumter county, especially among the colored race. The wife of Parker Williams, a negro on the farm of W. E. Mitchell, near Americus, gave birth to triplets, all being male children. The only comment made by the landlord was that he would soon have three cotton choppers.

POLITICIANS READY FOR TRIP TO MACON

Democratic State Convention and Executive Committee Meet Wednesday.

The interest of the state in matters political now centers in the meetings of the state democratic executive committee and the state democratic convention, both of which will be held in Macon Wednesday of this week.

It is expected that there will be a large attendance, and already politicians from all parts of the state are on their way.

Of further interest is the statement of several prospective candidates for governor that they will make known their intentions in this direction after the committee meets. Among these possible candidates are Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey, of Atlanta; Mayor James G. Woodward, of Atlanta, and Internal Revenue Collector A. O. Blalock, of Fayetteville.

The committee will meet at the Macon city hall at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Praetically the only business which will come before the committee will be that of fixing the time and details of the primary and convention for the election of governor, members of the general assembly and statehouse officials.

It is certain that this primary will be held in September, as the limitations of the law make this necessary, and it will be left for the committee only to fix the day in September when the primary will be held.

The convention will meet at 11 o'clock, after the adjournment of the committee.

It is generally conceded that Joe Pottle, of Milledgeville, will be made the temporary chairman of the convention, inasmuch as no other name has been mentioned for the place. Neither has any name other than that of John W. Bennett, of Waycross, been named for permanent chairman, and it is likely that there will be no opposition to naming him for this place. Both men are well known over the state, and both are very efficient.

EICHELBERGER DISCUSSES PROHIBITION PROBLEMS

Dr. George W. Eichelberger's address featured the monthly meeting of the Evangelical Ministers' association meeting held Monday morning. Dr. Eichelberger is head of the Anti-Saloon league, and spoke to the ministers on the problems confronting the prohibition interests in the enforcement of the law which became effective May 1.

John J. Eagan, of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, asked the association for the indorsement of the plan of the movement to employ a secretary in Atlanta to give his time to the work of this organization. His request was granted.

HEARING OF AUSTELL INJUNCTION BEGINS

In Judge Pendleton's department of the superior court the hearing of the application of W. W. Austell for an injunction against the city's proposed condemnation of the property at the southeast corner of Edgewood avenue and Pryor street for the purpose of widening Edgewood avenue, was begun yesterday morning. The petition at issue was filed by Mr. Austell as trustee on the ground that the property involved, a portion of the Austell estate, rests in such status as to make negotiations for its transfer unauthorized. This petition, too, is for a permanent injunction and follows the recent granting of a similar petition to block the city's plans temporarily.

VICTIM OF AUTOMOBILE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

The Real Secret of Rejuvenating the Face

She holds the true secret of facial rejuvenation who has learned how to remove the dead skin particles as fast as they appear. It's a secret anyone may possess. The aged, faded, or discolored surface skin may be gradually absorbed, in an entirely safe and rational manner, by the nightly application of ordinary mercolized wax.

Within a week or two the underlying skin, youthful and beautiful to behold, has taken the place of the discarded cuticle. So little of the old skin is absorbed each day there's no inconvenience at all, and no one suspects you are putting anything on your face. The mercolized wax, procurable at any drugstore (an ounce is sufficient), is applied like cold cream. In the morning it is erased with soap and water. It's the best thing known for freckles, blackheads, pimples, moth patches, liver spots and fine surface wrinkles.

For the deeper wrinkles, an excellent recipe is: Powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution produces quick and wonderful results.

WARM DAYS MAY BE FOLLOWED BY SUMMER SHOWERS

Following the last few days of real "summery" weather, Atlanta is promised a diminution of temperature today, with a few clouds and a bare possibility of showers tonight and tomorrow. Government Meteorologist C. F. von Herrmann, forecaster in charge of the Atlanta weather office, prophesying for Georgia, says that today will be "partly cloudy, with probably showers and cooler in the western portion" of the state.

During the week unseasonably cool weather, with frosts, will be the order in the Great Lakes region, the upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys, the Rocky mountains and the western plateau regions. Moderate temperature will prevail, according to the forecast, over the Atlantic and Gulf states during the early part of the week, to be followed after tomorrow by cool weather.

Throughout the country generally fair weather will prevail during the next several days, except that local showers in the Mississippi valley and to the immediate east thereof should occasion no surprise, attending the eastward movement of a moderate disturbance now over the plains states. This disturbance probably will reach the Atlantic ocean tonight or Wednesday. Anotner disturbance is headed eastward from the western sea, and probably will reach the Pacific tomorrow night or Thursday and the middle western states toward the last of the week. General rains are due to attend this disturbance.

Due to the presence of a slight disturbance south from Texas, general cloudy weather was the order of the day yesterday over the Mississippi valley and the region to the creats of the Rockies. Rain fell in Texas in considerable quantities. At Dallas the precipitation was 1.42; at Fort Worth, 1.96 inches. In the Rocky mountain region and in the northwest the weather was fair and again quite cold, a number of stations reporting frost early yesterday morning. Killing frosts were reported from Dodge City, North Platte and Rapid City.

MOTHER WILL BRING BODY OF MRS. MARSH FOR BURIAL HERE

The body of Mrs. Julia Singleton Marsh, former Atlanta girl, daughter of Mrs. H. L. Singleton, of the Blackstone apartments, who committed suicide in New York city several days ago on account of disappointment over the failure of theatrical ventures, will be brought to Atlanta for funeral and interment, according to statements made at the Singleton apartment Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Singleton left for New York several days ago and is expected to start for Atlanta either Tuesday or Wednesday.

Mrs. Marsh was found dead in a large reclining chair in her apartment, 140 West Fifty-fifth street, New York. The doors and windows to the room in which she was sitting had been closed tightly and the gas turned on.

It was stated that five years ago Mrs. Marsh, then Julia Singleton, married Forrest C. Marsh, a wealthy investment broker of New York.

Statements attributed to the husband were that they lived happily for a time until the bride became obsessed with the idea to go on the stage. Separation followed and, coupled with failure of several theatrical ventures, was said to have caused the suicide.

Resinol Soap

Clears bad complexions

Protects delicate skin

Keeps hair healthy

does far more than remove the dirt

Any soap will clean your skin—a bar of laundry soap will do if you do not care what becomes of your complexion. But you know that laundry soap usually contains harsh, drying alkali that would ruin your skin and hair, so you never think of using it for your toilet.

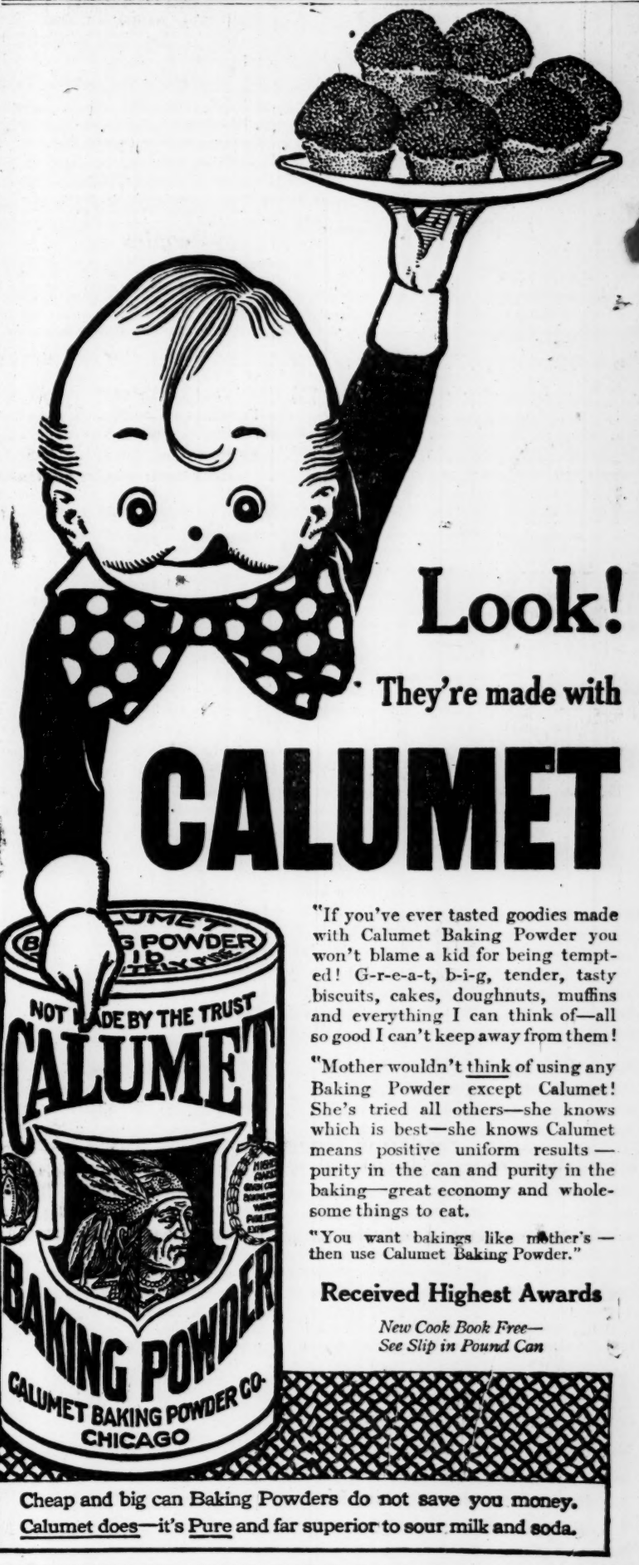

Poorly made toilet soaps contain this same injurious chemical. Resinol Soap has absolutely no free alkali, while to it is added the Resinol medication, which physicians prescribe regularly for skin affections. This gives it soothing, healing properties which improve the complexion, protect tender skins from irritations, and keep the hair rich, lustrous and free from dandruff.

Resinol Soap is sold by all druggists. For a trial size cake, write to Dept. 10-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

THE CONSTITUTION is on sale in New York city by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had: Hotaling's Newsstands, Broadway and Forty-second street (Times building corner), Thirty-eighth street and Broadway and Twenty-ninth street and Broadway.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents.

NOT MISLEADING.

The Constitution is in receipt of the following communication from Inspector Graham, of the postoffice department:

> Editor Constitution: I call attention to a misleading feature of the cartoon on page 1-A of The Constitution of April 30.
> This cartoon represents a letter carrier in the act of delivering a package labeled "Parcel Post" and packages labeled "Liquor Orders," implying that intoxicants are transported through the mails.
> A statute prevents the use of the mails to transport intoxicants and that it is rigidly enforced may be discovered by anyone who attempts to violate it.
> H. N. GRAHAM.

With due respect to Inspector Graham, The Constitution's cartoon of Sunday—emphasizing the interference by the federal government with the effort of Georgia to make a real test of prohibition—was not misleading, if properly construed.

If viewed according to Inspector Graham's interpretation there might be some ground for the position that the cartoon was misleading. It was clearly apparent, however, both in the cartoon and in the editorial commenting upon it, that the protest was not upon the delivery of goods by the United States mail, but at the use of these agencies as channels for the solicitation of articles which had been outlawed by the state.

If, in the cartoon, "liquor solicitations" had been substituted for "liquor orders," the statement would have been more accurate.

Of course Inspector Graham is correct in the statement that intoxicants cannot be transported through the mails, and yet every mail that comes into Georgia is literally flooded with solicitations for liquor business.

The state of Georgia has taken the position that no Georgia newspaper can legally publish liquor advertising, and more than that—that no outside newspaper containing such advertising can be sold in Georgia.

The determination of the state is, therefore, apparent—and yet in the face of the state's action whisky houses, the country over, are literally swamping the mails with solicitations for liquor business. It is understood that the name of every reader along every R. F. D. route in Georgia has been ascertained; that every telephone directory in the state is being "worked," and in this way the personal approach is very much more direct than in the manner now prohibited by the state.

When the federal government made up its mind to close up the Louisiana state lottery as an immoral institution it acted upon the theory that the quickest and the most certain way was to deny to it the use of the United States mails.

The precedent, therefore, has been established, and the efficacy of the treatment was forcibly demonstrated when the lottery went out of business.

Nothing like as drastic action is expected of the government in the matter of the liquor business. Where a state authorizes the sale of liquor either by high license, strict regulation, or otherwise, nobody asks that the government interfere; but where a state votes for prohibition and is making an honest and a solemn effort to enforce the law, then it is as little as the people of that state can ask of their representatives that they demand the right of a fair trial of that law without the use of agencies of the federal government to deliberately nullify it.

Again, may The Constitution inquire of our senators and representatives in congress as to what they propose to do to help the state of Georgia enforce its laws?

PUT THEM ON NOTICE!

The person who sells or attempts to sell liquors of any kind in Georgia comes under the classification of "blind tiger."

Every "blind tiger" operating or seeking to operate in this state, whether in Atlanta or in any other town or community anywhere within the limits of Georgia, must be put on notice that this time Georgia means business.

Georgia now proposes, in so far as the United States government will let her do it, to give the new prohibition laws a perfectly fair and square test.

The sooner the fact is established that the courts mean to treat the new laws seriously and put potential violators on notice as to what they may expect, by a few chaingang sentences, the better it will be for the state and the more nearly we shall come to having law enforcement as Georgia wants to see it.

The problem is one in which public sentiment must play a prominent part.

Georgia cities and towns, some of which have heretofore shown little dispisition to enforce the law, have come forward this time with the highly commendable disposition and announced purpose to make the new laws effective. Fortunately, there is no community in the state which has set itself apart in the determination to evade or violate them.

That is the only way to get a fair test. For one community, through the laxity of its courts, or the indifference of public sentiment, to let down the bars would simply mean to invite similar action by others.

It would make very little difference, if this disposition to evade and violate the law were confined to a single community; but the danger lies in its spread.

Fortunately, state sentiment generally stands everywhere for strong and emphatic enforcement of the laws which went into effect on May 1.

With the co-operation between arresting officers, courts and public sentiment, there need be no question whatever as to enforcement in so far as federal laws permit it.

We must do just that. We can afford to do no less. We are on trial before the world, before ourselves and our own consciences. Let us begin now, and make and keep the record clean!

FOR BIRMINGHAM.

The Birmingham Ledger, we regret to note, apparently without inquiry or investigation, published recently a statement to the effect that leading Atlanta business men had "agreed to throw their influence and work for Evansville against Birmingham (in the matter of a proposed armor plate plant) in return for aid from Evansville in sending conventions to Atlanta."

We are genuinely sorry that so well edited and careful a paper, ordinarily, as The Ledger, should have given publicity to such statements as this without first at least asking about it. If it had done this, the publication would never have been made, for the simple reason that there is no foundation for it.

Before quoting this statement from The Ledger, The Baltimore Manufacturers' Record wired to Atlanta to find out about it. The Record received and published, along with The Ledger's statement, the following telegram from President V. H. Kriegshaber, of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce:

> Your telegram received. The matter has never been brought before the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce officially or otherwise. The statement of The Ledger is incorrect. Of course, if Birmingham or any other southern city is making an effort to secure the location of a government armor plant, and by reason of location and supply of raw material, etc., would be qualified for the site of an armor plant, we would use every effort to secure a southern location.

There is Atlanta's answer clear and unmistakable. Commenting upon the foregoing, The Manufacturers' Record said:

> This is merely in keeping with what might have been expected by anyone who understands Atlanta and the people of that city. Naturally, Atlanta people are enthusiastic advocates of Atlanta. They are constantly striving to upbuild Atlanta, but they are not narrow-minded, not provincial, not jealous of other southern cities. It seems hardly conceivable that a daily paper such as The Ledger, so near to Atlanta, would publish the lengthy editorial, from which we have taken a brief extract, charging that city with uniting with a western city against Birmingham in the selection of an armor plant.

The Record has the right view! Far from having adopted the principle and policy which The Ledger's editorial suggests, we are for Birmingham in this matter, and whatever assistance we can render her in the attainment of success is hers for the asking.

Atlanta is eager and ambitious. She goes out for every good thing she wants and has the facilities for handling. But she has never yet played the "dog in the manger," and never will.

By reason of the proximity of splendid coal and iron resources, as well as her excellent transportation facilities, Birmingham is well fitted as the location for an armor plate plant, whether under government or private supervision and control.

The Constitution, which has stood foremost among newspapers of the south in its appeal for the more extensive development of these natural resources, particularly of the Alabama iron fields, believes Birmingham is the logical point for the location of such a plant as this. It ought to go there, and Atlanta is ready to help put it there.

We are for Birmingham for two very good reasons: It has the raw material and the facilities, and it is a strong, an enterprising and a growing southern city.

Sometimes we compete, and when we go after a thing we go with all our might and main regardless of our competitor; but we do it in a spirit of generosity and good will; and we try to leave no sting.

But when it comes to matters of this sort wherein we cannot expect to compete, and do not, we stand with our sister southern city. Atlanta is not only glad to see her grow, but happy to lend a helping hand!

The Call.

I.

Hear the country—'way off,
Calling clear and loud:
"Life must take a day off
Where cities cease to crowd;
Day off, where the lilies
Hide the golden bees
And Life's only will is
To dream 'neath kindly trees."

II.

So the country's calling,
Near and far away,
While the light is falling
From the splendid day
And your fancies stray off
To the fields and streams:
World must take a day off
To dream Life's sweeter dreams.

Winter's kiss still lingers on May's red lips, and still Winds that breathe of Winter sing over vale and hill;
But promise of the Junetime in Maytime glory beams—
The time of Love and longing—a world of stars and dreams.

CARRIERS FILE AMENDMENT TO THEIR RATE PETITIONS

The class B and C railroads of Georgia have filed with the state railroad commission an amendment to the petition recently filed by them asking revision in intrastate freight tariffs. It is understood that other class carriers will support this amendment.

The amendment asks the following changes:

For sulphuric acid, in tank cars, to have a specific commodity group rating in lieu of the present sixth class rating.

That the present fourth class rating for vehicle material, L. C. L., be made fifth and sixth class, and that car load lots be made the same as shown in the petition under commodity group six.

That a consolidated rating of sixth class be made upon beans and peas, in car load lots, with a minimum of 36,000 pounds per car, in lieu of the present rates for any quantity ranging from second class to class D, according to the method of preparation for shipment.

That a consolidated fifth class rating be made upon wooden handles, L. C. L., in lieu of the present L. C. L. rating on handles ranging from fifth class to class B; for car load lots, to substitute the commodity group six rates for the present class K rating, and revising the minimum rate to a basis of 30,000 pounds in lieu of the present minimum of 24,000 pounds.

On fresh meat, car lots, they ask the adoption of a scale 10 cents per 100 pounds higher than class B (but not higher than fourth class), in lieu of the present class B rating.

It is also suggested that comomdity group six rates be made applicable on carlot shipments of wooden silos, knocked down.

COOK READY TO DIVIDE AUTO MONEY BETWEEN COUNTIES

At the close of business, April 30, 1916, the last automobile registration number under the new law was 33,840. The last number sold at the close of business on the same date in 1915 was 22,210. This is an increased registration of cars under the new law of about 33 1-3 per cent as compared with last year, but there is no way in which the aggregate amount of money derived from the sale of tags can be arrived at until the registrations have been classified, inasmuch as the new law provides for a graduated fee instead of a flat fee of $5 for all cars, as heretofore.

Apportionment among the several counties of the state of the fund, less $1 on each tag, will be made, so soon as the lost can be compiled, on a basis of the public roadways in such counties, outside of incorporated cities and towns. Heretofore the mileage has been accepted from the last United States census, which gives Georgia 82,000 miles. This year, however, the mileage will be measured by the board of county commissioners and certified to the secretary of state, who will accept these figures as the state's official record of the road mileage.

All money accruing from the sale of tags after the close of business on April 29 will be carried over to the apportionment of next year, but from the 1915 fund, of later date than the apportionment for that year, about $17,000 remains in the treasury and will be included in this year's apportionment.

The record shows that of the 33,840 cars registered, 15,349 are Ford cars, 237 pleasure electrics and 1,140 are delivery wagons and motor trucks.

AN APPICATION FOR CHARTER FOR THE WIRE GRASS BROTHERS

The newest in Georgia among the fraternal, beneficiary and benevolent organizations is the "Royal Pasture of the Wire Grass Brothers," which has begun to roam around in south Georgia. A charter was granted to the organization by the secretary of state Monday on application from W. M. Rowell, H. P. Rowell, W. M. Taylor, G. B. McDuffie, J. K. Sims of Doerun, and C. B. Slocumb, of Fuston, Ga. It is a secret organization, the principal Georgia office of which is to be located in the town of Sigsbee, in the county of Colquitt. The charter is for a term of fifty years.

Another charter granted is that to the Port Wentworth Navigation company for a term of thirty years, with principal offices in Savannah, Ga. The capital stock of the concern is $10,000. Charter was applied for by George W. Campbell, Thomas F. Goodbody, W. Latrop Hopkins and Gordon Saussy, of Savannah, and Richard Hopkins, of Short Hills, N. Y.

PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION ASKS TO INCREASE ITS RATES

The Americus Public Service corporation, which is operating under an unusual sort of an arrangement, and is partly owned by the city and part by a private company, under a consolidation plan, is not making money enough to carry out the provisions under which two companies were made one. They have, therefore, asked permission of the railroad commission to increase their rates on electric lighting and power.

The concern was originally one company owned by the Americus Gas and Electric company, a private concern, and another, the Americus Power company, owned by the city. They were not paying on a division of the business, and it was decided to consolidate. The city turned in its property at $62,500, and the private company its property at $162,500. A board of directors were selected to operate the plant and carry out the provisions of the consolidation contract, that board being composed of Frank Sheffield, J. E. Poole and C. M. Council.

The stipulation was that they were to pay the operating expenses of the consolidated concern and provide a sinking fund of 5 per cent per annum on $225,000, which would be used at the end of twenty years to take up the outstanding bonds to that amount, and upon liquidation of those bonds the entire property should revert to the city and a completely municipality-owned plant.

The showing is now made that the operation of the company under the rates as in existence does not produce a sufficient revenue to pay the operating expenses and set aside the required 5 per cent for sinking fund, as contemplated in the franchise ordinance adopted. For that reason the commission is asked to approve the following increase in rates: The light rate from 9 to 12 cents per kilowatt hour; a minimum power rate of 2 cents instead of 1½ cents, and a revision of the gas rates as follows: To make a uniform rate of $1.40 in lieu of the present rate of $1.50 for lighting and $1.40 for cooking or fuel gas.

The case will be heard at the next regular session of the commission.

THE LEVY CASE DECISION TO BE MADE SHORTLY

Governor Harris said Monday he expected to go over with Secretary F. R. Jones Monday night the last of the documentary evidence in the case against Major Abram Levy, of Augusta, in which a retiring board made investigation of his fitness to continue to hold a commission in the National Guard, and there is a possibility that he will pass on the finding of the board before leaving Atlanta for the Macon convention Tuesday afternoon. It is understood that some additional incidents in connection with the management of the Augusta battalion, which occurred during the Augusta fire, have been cited in connection with this case, but whether or not they will have a bearing on it is not known.

CONDEMNED MAN'S PETITION PRESENTED TO COMMISSION

There was formally presented to the state prison commission Monday, with only Judge Rainey sitting, a petition for commutation of the death sentence of L. E. Lindsey, convicted in Clay county of wife murder and sentenced to hang May 12. The petition was presented by Attorneys King & Turnipseed, of Fort Gaines. In view of the fact that the other members of the commission were not here, and it is desired to have a full board pass on a petition for commutation of sentence, the case goes over until today, when Messrs. Davidson and Patterson are expected. The Robert Kitchens case also is expected to be taken up by the commission Tuesday or Wednesday.

PLANS FOR DEDICATORY EXERCISES OF MEMORIAL TO THE CONFEDERACY ON SIDE OF STONE MOUNTAIN MADE

The board of directors of the Stone Mountain Monumental association, at a meeting held in Alex C. King's offices yesterday, laid plans for holding the dedicatory exercises of the confederate memorial on the side of Stone Mountain, at Stone Mountain, Saturday afternoon, May 20.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy are sponsoring the carving in the side of Stone Mountain a great monument to the heroism and bravery of the soldiers who fought for the southern cause in 1860-65.

Hundreds of old rebel soldiers, who will attend the annual reunion at Birmingham, May 16-17-18, will come back to Atlanta and attend the exercises at Stone Mountain.

Will Declare Half Holiday.

Mayor Woodward has promised to declare May 20 a half holiday, and the people of Stone Mountain are making arrangements to assist in the entertainment of the great crowd that will flock to Stone Mountain on that day.

The grand commander of the Grand Army of the Republic will be invited to attend, and the new commander of the Confederate Veterans, to be elected at Birmingham, will also be invited.

About 200 confederate veterans from Fredericksburg, Va., will be here.

Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, who has been engaged to do the carving of the monument on the side of the world's biggest rock, will be on hand, and explain the details.

Veterans from the Trans-Mississippi department will also come to Georgia for this ceremony.

The automobile tour of the Lincoln-Washington highway, which runs from Seattle, Wash., to Savannah, Ga., will probably be in Atlanta on May 20, and is planning to stop over at Stone Mountain for the exercises.

Charter Is Approved.

At Monday's meeting of the board of directors, who were elected at the first meeting of the Monumental association, last Monday, at the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the charter of the association, as drawn up by Alex C. King and Hooper Alexander, was approved, it having already received the indorsement of the charter members of the association.

Alex C. King was elected chairman of the board of directors, and General A. J. West, a confederate veteran, was elected secretary.

Meetings of the board will be held every other day or so to complete arrangements for the big celebration on May 20.

Plans are being laid for a great banquet the same night in honor of the dedication of the great work.

Adair, Master of Ceremonies.

Forrest Adair was chosen master of ceremonies for the Stone Mountain dedicatory exercises, and given full authority to select his committeemen and make entertainment arrangements.

The board consists of nine directors, who are as follows:

Alex C. King, chairman; A. J. West, secretary; Clark Howell, John Temple Graves, J. K. Orr, Mell R. Wilkinson, Sam H. Venable, Hooper Alexander and Hugh M. Willet.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS WILL HOLD THREE DAYS' SESSION IN ATLANTA

The southern conclave of the United States Bureau of Standards will begin in Atlanta at the Georgian Terrace hotel this morning at 10 o'clock, when 400 prominent civil, mechanical and electrical engineers, public utility and city officials, scientists and insurance experts will discuss the provisions of the proposed national electrical safety code, which is now being formulated by the bureau of standards.

The conference will last three days, and many of the world's most famous scientists will lecture.

The conference is held here under the auspices of the local affiliated technical societies.

A. M. Schoen, chief engineer of the Southeastern Underwriters' association, is chairman of the entertainment committee.

The program for Tuesday evening calls for an illustrated lecture on recent electrical and mechanical inventions.

The bureau of standards for the past eighteen months has been formulating a "national, electrical safety code." Conferences have been held in several prominent cities of the nation, from the Pacific coast to Maine.

As the "National electrical safety code" will be a governmental standardization of all electrical appliances and apparatus, the code will play an important role in all damage suits against public utility concerns and city governments.

There are many peculiar conditions existing in the south, which, local experts have maintained, should be considered and studied by the scientists and experts in charge of formulating the code before the code is finally completed.

The program for the three days is as follows:

TUESDAY.

10:00 A. M. to 12:30 P. M. and 2:00 P. M. to 5:00 P. M.—Discussion of the national electrical safety code.

8:00 P. M.—Moving pictures and slides of work of the bureau of standards.

WEDNESDAY.

10:00 A. M. to 12:30 P. M. and 2:00 P. M. to 5:00 P. M.—Paper and discussion on "Electrolysis Mitigation."

THURSDAY.

10:00 A. M. to 12:30 P. M. and 2:00 P. M. to 5:00 P. M.—Discussion on the question of "Grounding Low Potential Secondaries and Grounding Electrical Equipment."

Preparedness and Education

Editor Constitution: Please allow me to make the following suggestion to the democratic convention which meets in convention in Macon on May 3.

I would urge that they write a plank in their platform, and use all their power to get it written in the national platform pledging themselves to the following suggested plan, a plan which will wipe out illiteracy and unpreparedness, and will at the same time not Prussianize our government.

America's greatest needs are education and preparedness.

I can see no reason why this government should not wipe out illiteracy and national unpreparedness jointly, under the following roughly outlined plan:

Let the government establish colleges in each congressional district in which a three-year course in agriculture, literary or mechanical training are taught, each pupil being required at the same time to take a course in military training.

Let these schools be absolutely free.

The only obligations which pupils should be required to put themselves under should be to have their names placed on the reserve army list for a term of three years (after graduation) their services demandable only in case of war.

This plan, if worked out along the right lines will give us adequate national preparedness, and will at the same time give the boys both poor and rich an equal opportunity to prepare themselves for that greatest of all great struggles—the upbuilding and upkeeping of our national commerce and agriculture in time of peace.

Do this, and we will need no societies for the "prevention" of illiteracy.

The parents of the boys of this nation, especially the poor, are only too anxious for their boys to receive a collegiate education and this plan will open the doors of opportunity to thousands who are by nature intellectual geniuses, but whose talents must lie in waste because they are too poor to attend the schools, which are now by no means free.

Stonewall Jackson.

(Stonewall Jackson was wounded at the Battle of Chancellorsville May 2, 1863, and died a few days thereafter. Before dying he utter these word: "Let us pass over the river, and rest under the shade of the trees.")

I.

Now we shall cross the river,
And rest the shades within;
Far from the noise and struggle,
And deadly battle's din.
Soft comes the pulsing night-tide,
O'er weird, ensanguined lands,
And through the gloaming twilight
I hear the charging bands.

II.

They'll rest beneath the shadows,
Far from the battle toil,
Where Peace awaits their footsteps
Upon her sainted soil,
Where shrines are gleaming ever
And Valor ever leads
Her high-born sons of battle
To count their daring deeds.

III.

In History's tragic story
Their names shall graven be,
Shafts with proudest annals tell
The epic of the free,
While memory fans her embers,
And gathers up her slain,
The while she weeps that struggle,
So fierce and long were vain.

IV.

Yes, we shall cross the river,
Though it be night's soft gloaming,
And though the flood be chilling,
I shall not heed its foaming.
But bid my brave companions
Before we pass the flood,
To plant the Cross of Battle
Where late the foe had stood.

Zode Smith, manager of the waterworks department, has located a new place for picnics. It is between Hemphill avenue pumping station and the new reservoir ground and has a spring of cool, fresh water. Mr. Smith is having a couple of tennis courts built so visitors may enjoy a game along with their picnic. There are many trout in the lake, Mr. Smith states, and when they begin jumping in the late afternoon the water flashes like silver. But he says no one will be permitted to catch the fish.

MOB OF STRIKERS CHARGED PLANTS

Five Thousand Angry Men Damaged Pittsburg Plants. The Police Unable to Stop the Strikers.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 1.—Five thousand striking employees of the Westinghouse plants entered the mills of four big steel companies in Pankin and Braddock late today, attacked employees and caused property damage amounting to several hundred dollars. One rioter was arrested but hundreds attacked the police with stones and rescued the prisoner. The rioting lasted three hours and was the most serious that has occurred since the strike began.

The plants entered were those of the Edgar Thompson works, of the Carnegie Steel company, the American Steel and Wire company, the McClintic-Marshall Construction company and the Standard Chain works. District Attorney Jackson ordered the saloons in Braddock, which had been permitted to reopen three hours before the trouble, to be closed indefinitely.

The disturbance followed a parade of strikers from East Pittsburg. Going to the plant of the Edgar Thompson works in North Braddock, the marchers battered down heavy iron gates at one of the entrances and sweeping ten policemen before them, forced their way into the plant. Other strikers blockaded the tracks of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie and the Baltimore and Ohio thirty minutes on both roads.

Crying "eight hours a day" the strikers rushed through the plant, attacking several workmen. When the men refused to join them, the strikers went to the McClintic-Marshall plant. Battering open a gate they rushed into the works, destroyed large belts and damaged machinery, according to the police. A number of men were beaten and two foreigners rushed out of the plant and jumped into the Monongahela river, swimming to the opposite shore.

The marchers adopted similar tactics at the other plants.

LABOR DISORDER IN NEW YORK CITY.

New York, May 1.—May day, featured here by a monster parade of union workers, also was marked by the beginning of new labor disorders as well as the settlement of several strikes.

The paraders, carrying banners and placards, passed up Fifth avenue for several miles and returned to Washington square, the starting point, by way of Madison avenue. Members of the garment working trades predominated and later held a mass meeting preparatory to the calling of a strike tomorrow, following the lockout put into effect by the manufacturers last week.

The day began with a strike of engineers and firemen on tugboats and lighters in New York harbor and adjacent waterways, but by nightfall many of the owners had acceded to the demands for increased wages and the water traffic situation was much improved. Most of the railroad companies operating tugboats granted the demands of the men, but several of the commercial companies still held out. Many freight vessels were unable to dock on account of the scarcity of tugboats, but there was little delay in the docking of passenger vessels.

Negotiations between the engineers and firemen and their employers continued tonight and a satisfactory settlement was expected.

About a thousand dock laborers went on strike in Brooklyn for an increase in wages, hampering the movement of freight by one large docking concern.

It was announced that the strike of 2,000 jewelry workers, which had been in progress for three months, had been settled. The workers received an eight-hour day, time and a half for overtime and the abolition of the home work system.

The terms of the agreement between the 175,000 coal miners of the anthracite field and the operators was approved by the tri-district board representing the miners and it is expected the miners will approve the result of the negotiations at their meeting at Pottsville, Pa., tomorrow.

Efforts of a band of anarchists to hold a meeting in Manhattan gave the police their only work of the day. Three anarchists were arrested and the meeting was dispersed.

Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, announced tonight that a general strike of the 60,000 cloak makers will be called Wednesday morning. The cloak makers, he said, "are united in their efforts to fight for their existence."

HOPE TO SETTLE TROLLEY STRIKE.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 1.—Hopes were held out for an early settlement of the strike of street car men which went into effect last midnight and which has tied up every line in Allegheny county with the exception of three interurbans, as a result of a conference between Mayor Armstrong, business men, newspaper publishers, officials of the Pittsburg Railways company and a committee of union men here tonight. The conference began at 4 o'clock this afternoon and was still in session at midnight. Those present were optimistic regarding the outcome of the negotiations.

In a room adjoining that in which the conference was being held sat Clifton Reeves, conciliation commissioner of the United States department of labor, who was sent here in an effort to adjust the strike of Westinghouse employees; James C. Steese, chief clerk of the mediation board of the Pennsylvania department of labor and industry, and Francis Feehan, supervising inspector in this state for the labor department.

SINN FEIN REBELS SURRENDER ARMS

that it was an outbreak which had behind it a fair organization and sufficient force to strangle the life of the capital and compel the authorities to send for military assistance from England. At no time, however, did the authorities consider the rebellion a menace to the government, nor did they have any fears as to their ability to cope with it quickly as soon as its extent became apparent.

Rebels Dashed for Postoffice.

What occurred was as follows:

Monday: The first move was a dash by members of the Sinn Fein into the general postoffice. Many of these men were in the uniform of the Irish volunteers, a body formed at the time men of Ulster organized against granting home rule to Ireland, the object being to resist any attempt by Ulster to oppose the home rule law. The party worked quietly, compelling all officials to quit their posts while they cut telegraphic communications.

The rebels posted sentinels and prevented any soldiers or policemen from entering the building.

Soon afterward firing opened in the neighboring streets, for the rebels immediately shot down any man in khaki. Several officers and men of the regular army thus fell victims in the first few minutes of the revolt.

The authorities, unprepared at first to deal with the uprising, ordered the police and soldiers to retire to their quarters, none of them being armed. In the meantime the rebels seized other points. They established themselves at the city hall, Liberty hall and St. Stephens' green and also occupied many houses in Sackville street and the side streets leading to it. Their sentries patrolled blocks in the center of the city and sharpshooters took up positions on the roofs and at the windows of houses. An attempt was made to seize Dublin castle but the guard of royal Irish constabulary and soldiers prevented the rebels from getting beyond the gate, at which they killed the policeman on duty.

Rebels Made Great Mistake.

The authorities were powerless, with the forces at their disposal, to dislodge or attempt to combat the rebels who, however, made a great mistake which eventually cost them dear. They either forgot to seize the telephone exchange or did not think it worth their attention. Thus the authorities were able to send a call to the military officers at Camp Curragh, some 30 miles away. From this point a considerable body of troops was immediately dispatched to the capital.

Tuesday: The situation in the morning was virtually unchanged except that the rebels apparently had increased in numbers and spread in small parties about the city. Sniping was fairly prevalent throughout the day and numbers of casualties occurred among soldiers, rebels and civilians, the last suffering more than the two fighting bodies because they failed to grasp the seriousness of the situation.

No effort was undertaken on this day to turn the rebels out of their strongholds, as the force of military on hand was still insufficient. The military in London had been communicated with and within a short time a large body of troops was on the way to cope with the rebellion. On Tuesday evening citizens of the city were still strolling along the walks of the Sackville street center.

Cordons Were Drawn.

Wednesday: On the morning of this day the authorities formed a plan to deal with the situation and began making disposition of troops, drawing a large cordon of men around the city and other smaller cordons around the three principal areas occupied by the rebels—at Sackville street, St. Stephen's Green and Four Courts. There movements led to much fighting and bloodshed. Sniping became general throughout the city. The rebels were supplied with ample ammunition and used it so freely that it was dangerous to walk even a few steps in the open or to sit at a window.

By Wednesday evening the two parcies of combatants and the areas they occupied were more or less accurately defined. The Sinn Feiners would not allow anyone to pass without the written authority of their chiefs, and the military, on their side, proclaimed martial law and restricted the movements of civilians to the streets in which they resided, while all were forbidden to go out of their homes after dark or before dawn.

Soldiers on duty at the ends of streets were compelled to remain under shelter from rebel bullets which came from every quarter and angle. During the day a gunboat came up the River Liffey, fired several shells into Liberty hall, which was occupied by a number of rebel officers and soon demolished it. The cordons of troops gradually drew tighter around the rebel forts and the firing became faster and more furious.

Veritable Hail of Bullets.

Thursday: By this time the city was under a veritable hail of bullets, and the small shot fusillade became a continuous roar. The Associated Press correspondent, with several other newspaper men, passed along the custom house quay by the north wall and thence over the circular road, with bullets striking the walls and the ground all around. The rebels in some force had taken a position in a flour mill on the south side, from which they harried the troops on the north side until the authorities decided to use artillery to dislodge them. A dozen shells did the work and the rebels retired to a disused distillery further south, whence they were still able to give much trouble.

Later in the day a naval gun and field artillery turned their attention to this point. From the top of the distillery tower floated a rebel flag. The bombardment was spectacular. Only 48 shells were fired and every one hit the distillery, but the flagstaff was not shot away, and it hung over the side of the building after the rebels had concluded the time was ripe to evacuate the structure.

Meanwhile fighting was becoming hotter in the Sackville street area.

Friday: The sniping by rebel sharpshooters had become so prevalent by Friday that the artillery officer in charge decided to shell the postoffice and houses in its neighborhood. Eight shells had been fired into the Young Men's Christian association building, two into the Catholic club and two into the postoffice when a cessation of the cannonade was ordered, as some houses had caught fire and it was feared the entire city might be placed in peril. Additional fresh troops had arrived and the cordons were further tightened, although this was accompanied by much fighting of a particularly dangerous type, every spot in the streets being in the danger zone.

The Rebels Started Fires.

The rebels started fires in several places, in the hope, it was reported, of the flames reaching the castle. On Friday night the sky for miles around was illuminated and flames shot up from many points. The green rebel flag that flew over the postoffice was sharply outlined by the glow. Rebels were seen walking on the roof, from which flames later increased in intensity the already brilliant light enveloping that part of the city. It was afterward discovered that the rebels had sprinkled the petroleum over the building and set fire to it before evacuating it and retiring to the coliseum, where they again put up a stout fight.

Saturday: Early on this morning the announcement was made that the leaders of the revolt had requested that they be allowed to surrender unconditionally, as their commander-in-chief, J. H. Pearce, had been wounded in the leg and it was reported that James Connolly, commander of the rebel troops, had received a severe wound. How many of the rebels surrendered to the military with their leaders was not learned on this day, but their action brought about an immediate dimunition of sniping and the city became comparatively quiet. Only two areas remained in possession of the rebels at night and it was clearly seen that the military was forcing them into an ever narrowing circle which would eventually bring about their capitulation.

Isolated parties of snipers still continued to pot shot at the troops, being evidently unaware of the capture of their leaders, but that evening it was possible to walk in the streets without running an excessive risk from stray bullets.

The Associated Press representative made two long tours through the city in order to obtain an idea of the sentiments of the population regarding the rebellion, which to all intents and purposes by this time had been suppressed. Some men, chiefly of the transport workers class, were sullen, evidently having expected greater results from the movement, which had been in preparation for a long time. Most of the population, however, expressed indignation at the outbreak which they considered the work of fanatics and a never having had a chance of permanent success.

Final Collapse of Rebellion.

Sunday: The final collapse of the rebellion came on this day, the expected happening, and the main body of the rebels in Dublin surrendering during the course of the day, beginning in the morning when those who had been established in the College of Surgeons gave themselves up. One of the prisoners here was the Countess Markievicz, said to be one of the leading spirits of the revolt.

In a proclamation issued by J. H. Pearce as "provisional president," the surrender of all the rebels was advised, as the members of the provisional government had agreed to unconditional surrender "in order to prevent the further slaughter of unarmed people and in the hope of saving the lives of our followers, who are surrounded and hopelessly outnumbered." Outside of Dublin, however, fighting continues at some points, but messages were sent from the leaders in Dublin carrying the news that the movement had collapsed and ordering the various rebel bodies to surrender.

Monday: Today came the news that all the rebel leaders had surrendered and that the total number of prisoners taken the day previous in Dublin had reached 1,000. The transportation of captured rebels to England was in full swing and it became known that nearly 500 of them had been sent across the channel. There was further submission of bodies outside the city, notably of the Enniscorthy rebels, who had been holding out persistently.

The Greatest Sufferers.

The greatest sufferers from the disturbance were the hundreds of thousands of peaceable citizens who were compelled to remain indoors and were unable to obtain sufficient food, although there were ample stores in the city. The authorities early began organazing relief for these people and on Friday and Saturday women and children were escorted in groups to provision depots where large supplies were handed out.

By Saturday night Dublin had resumed almost its normal aspect, except for a number of smouldering fires. It was interesting to re-read the motto of the city on each lamp, which in Latin says: "When citizens are obedient peace reigns in the city."

The Dublin soldiers and the Irish regiments in the garrisons of Dublin who bore the brunt of the first day's outbreak, expressed great indignation over the uprising, occurring, as it did, at a time when the British empire was fighting a great war. Some expressed regret that English regiments had been brought over to suppress the disturbance, as they thought the English soldiers were inclined to treat the rebels too leniently.

REDMOND SCORES IRISH-AMERICANS.

New York, May 1.—J. C. Walsh, editor of Ireland, received a cablegram today from John E. Redmond, in which the Irish nationalist leader reiterated his recent statement that the Dublin insurrection was organized in America as well as Ireland by "the irreconcilable enemies of home rule," and begs "our people in America not to be disturbed by this futile and miserable attempt to destroy Ireland," for it has "definitely, finally failed."

The message said:

"The attempt to torpedo home rule and the Irish party has failed. Damage has been done, life has been lost, but the ship has not been sunk. The whole thing has not been organized by those in Ireland and in America who have always been the open and irreconcilable enemies of home rule and of the Irish party. Though the hand of Germany was in the whole thing, it was not so much sympathy for Germany as hatred of home rule and of us, which was at the bottom of the movement. It was even more an attempt to hit us than to hit England.

"The whole disgraceful plot is viewed with execration by the Irish people. It was almost entirely a Dublin movement; partly the creation of the Sinn Fein cranks and German agents there, partly of the remnants of that mass of discontent and anarchy which was left by the disastrous Larkinite strike. In a few small towns there were attempts at disturbance which were easily suppressed, but Ireland, as a whole, has remained perfectly tranquil.

"As to the opinion of the Irish race I have received communications from all parts of the world declaring "vehement condemnation by Irishmen of this insane and wicked attempt to destroy all Ireland's hopes just at the moment when, after centuries of vain struggle, they were about to be fully realized. I beg our people in America not to be unduly disturbed by this futile and miserable attempt to destroy Ireland. It has failed—definitely, finally failed."

Robert Braselton, Well-Known Officer, Died Last Evening

Robert Braselton, aged 50, for twenty-four years a member of the police force, died suddenly last night after an illness of only a short time. His death was due to a carbuncle. He was a resident of 162 Love street.

Mr. Braselton was appointed on the force March 31, 1891 and served as a sergeant from March 29, 1895, to August 11, 1903, when he resigned. He was re-elected March 31, 1905, and was a patrolman at the time of his death. He was one of the most popular and best liked men on the force. Funeral and interment arrangements will be announced later.

THE DAY'S GRIST FROM THE STATE POLITICAL MILL

SENATOR HARDWICK DENIES HE HAS CONVENTION SLATE

United States Senator Thomas W. Hardwick passed through Atlanta yesterday en route to Macon, where he will attend the meetings of the state convention.

While here Senator Hardwick declared that the recent news story from Washington, reporting him as having a "slate" for the Georgia delegation to the national democratic convention, was absolutely without basis. He stated that he had neither given nor authorized any such statement and that he had absolutely no "slate" for the delegates-at-large from the state.

Senator Hardwick also made it clear that he had stated to nobody that he was opposed to H. H. Dean, of Gainesville, as one of these delegates.

"The truth of the matter is," continued Senator Hardwick, "I am above all things in favor of a harmonious convention, and it is for what I can contribute to that end by attending the convention that I have come from Washington. I have no ax to grind and my sole purpose is to co-operate with those who are trying to make the convention a love feast, in keeping with the national party spirit at this time. We are for President Wilson's renomination, standing together on that, it certainly is not worth while to go into unnecessary contentions over minor details."

SENATOR PEYTON SAYS JUDGE RUSSELL WILL RUN

Senator Peyton, of Mt. Airy, in Habershom county, was a visitor to the office of Judge "Dick" Russell, of the state court of appeals, Monday, and while there made the statement to friends of Judge Russell that the judge will certainly be a candidate for congress in the ninth district.

"How about it, judge?" one of his friends asked. "Do you back up that statement?"

"Well," said Judge Russell, "I neither affirm nor deny it."

Judge Russell has tendered his resignation from the appellate bench, effective June 5 next.

JUDGE NEWMAN PRAISES POLICY OF PRESIDENT

Declares People Should Be Thankful They Have Escaped Horrors of War.

Columbus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—That the people of the United States should be very thankful that they have escaped the horrors of war to which Europe is now being subjected was stressed by Judge William F. Newman, in his charge to the grand jury this morning upon the convening of the United States court for the western division of the northern district of Georgia.

Judge Newman spoke of the blessings of peace that the American people are now enjoying and said that they should be very appreciative that such conditions prevail.

That America is now at peace is due largely to the wise and temperate manner in which national affairs have been administered by President Wilson and his advisers, he said, and he spoke in approving terms of the president's general policy as regard foreign affairs.

Criminal cases were taken up after the preliminary details incident to the organization of court had received attention. The first case was that of Jim Seldon, a Muscogee county negro, who was not only charged with illicit distilling, but who freely admitted his guilt, both personally and through his attorney, T. Hicks Fort. Mr. Fort presented a long petition in behalf of his client, asking for the court's consideration and mercy. It seemed as if the whole end of the county in which Seldon resides rose up in his behalf, for, in addition to the petition, quite a number of citizens were present in person to say a word for him. The extent of the indorsement provoked a smile, the funny-bone of the court officials and spectators being touched. Judge Newman fined Seldon $100 and a month in jail.

Most of the cases to be taken up at this term of the court grew out of alleged violations of the revenue laws. In his charge to the grand jury Judge Newman, in touching on this general feature, said that the new Georgia prohibition law went into effect today. This law is stringent, he pointed out, and while juries in the federal court still have their duties, the responsibility for enforcement of the prohibition law itself rests with the state courts and their duties. The state law properly enforced, he said, would materially lessen the work of the federal court, as it would reduce the sum total of violations of prohibition and revenue laws.

Two Safes Blown.

Columbus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Two safes were blown in Phenix City this morning about 3 o'clock, the explosions being heard by a number of persons. The yeggmen broke open a section house near the Central of Georgia railway depot and obtained a number of tools, with which they prized open the door of the station agent's office. The door of the safe was blown entirely off and was found in the middle of the floor this morning. The yeggmen secured only about $25. They then repaired to O'Grady's store, nearby, prizing open one of the doors. The safe there was entirely wrecked, a large charge of explosive having been used. The cash drawer was thrown out and a lot of merchandise from an upper shelf fell down, covering it. The yeggmen were evidently getting nervous about that time, for they did not stop to look for the missing money drawer. There was $50 or $60 in the drawer, which was found by Mr. O'Grady this morning under the pile of goods.

Serious Charge Against Barber.

Columbus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Henry Whatley, a Columbus barber, was arrested last night and today was taken to Opelika, the county seat of Lee county, Alabama, to stand trial on a charge of attempted criminal assault, the alleged victim being his niece, a girl 13 years old, who lives in Phenix City, Ala. It is charged that Whatley called at the girl's home yesterday afternoon and said that he would take her to ride, and the two went out into the country seven or eight miles. When they returned the girl ran crying to her mother. A warrant against Whatley was sworn out by T. E. Hardin, another uncle of the girl, and during the night Whatley was located by the Columbus police and arrested. He at first refused to go to Alabama without requisition papers, but finally consented and was carried to Opelika during the morning.

Novel Experience.

Columbus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—All the Columbus near beer saloons and so-called clubs are closed today. Across the front of one of the leading saloons is a big placard on which is printed: "Gone to Church."

BRYAN HAS A CHANCE TO GET IN CONVENTION

For Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Here in America there is much suffering from catarrh and head noises. American people would do well to consider the method employed by the English to comoat this insidious disease. Everyone knows how damp the English climate is and how dampness affects those suffering from catarrh. In England they treat catarrhal deafness and head noises as a constitutional disease and use an internal remedy for it that is really very efficacious.

Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick tell how they had their hearing restored by this English treatment to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven and eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be easily prepared at home for about 75c and is made as follows:

From your druggist obtain 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home, and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are usually remarkably quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form should give this recipe a trial and free themselves from this destructive disease.

Freight Rates In Georgia

The adoption of the proposed revision would place Georgia rates on a parity with interstate rates in the South, and put Georgia rates substantially on a mileage basis so that all towns, small and large, would fare alike.

The following shows how rates to points in Georgia from points without the state would correspond with rates proposed within the state for similar hauls:

The rates from Chattanooga, Tenn., to Sugar Valley, Ga., 55 miles, will not be less than from Atlanta, Ga., to Milner, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Jacksonville, Fla., to Valdosta, Ga., 115 miles, will not be less than from Valdosta, Ga., to Grovania, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Birmingham, Ala., to Columbus, Ga., 157 miles, will not be less than from Atlanta, Ga., to Tennille, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Columbus, Ga., to Waverly, Ala., 43 miles, will not be less than from Atlanta, Ga., to Griffin, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Anniston, Ala., to Tallapoosa, Ga., 41 miles, will not be less than from Atlanta, Ga., to Villa Rica, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Chattanooga, Tenn., to Orchard Hill, Ga., 205 miles, will not be less than from Augusta, Ga., to Marshallville, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Montgomery, Ala., to Shellman, Ga., 116 miles, will not be less than from Macon, Ga., to Cuthbert, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Troy, Ala., to Valdosta, Ga., 203 miles, will not be less than from Savannah, Ga., to Thomasville, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Birmingham, Ala., to LaGrange, Ga., 166 miles, will not be less than from Brunswick, Ga., to Cordele, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Birmingham, Ala., to Woodland, Ga., 206 miles, will not be less than from Atlanta, Ga., to Fitzgerald, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Montgomery, Ala., to Cordele, Ga., 169 miles, will not be less than from Savannah, Ga., to Cordele, Ga., a similar distance.

The rates from Montgomery, Ala., to Whigham, Ga., 189 miles, will not be less than from Brunswick, Ga., to Whigham, Ga., a similar distance.

Mayor Points Possible Ways To Abate Crematory "Scandal"

Unless the courts shall modify the injunction feature of the recent decision against the city of Atlanta and in favor of the Destructor company, whereby the city might operate the plant, Mayor J. G. Woodward, in a message to the general council yesterday, says he sees but one remedy, "pay the whole amount and forever get rid of the crematory scandal."

If the court does not see fit to modify or change its decision, says the mayor, the city is cut off from carrying the case further, and he says it "simply places the power in the Destructor company of simply saying to the city: 'You shall stand and deliver to us what we demand without the privilege of resorting to other courts.'"

If the city is compelled to "pay the whole amount and get rid of the crematory scandal," the mayor says the only thing to be done will be for the finance committee to get together and arrange its already "over-anticipated budget" by more than $300,000 and provide for the payment of this entire amount, as I have stated before, the matter cannot be carried into next year unless it should be done by court methods through an appeal."

"Along either one of these lines," the message says, "I am perfectly willing to co-operate with council in the proper ending of this matter."

His message in part follows:

Threatens to Close Plant.

"I have received a written notice from George Spence, one of the attorneys for the Destructor company that erected that plant, that on account of the extreme cost of running the same, and further on account of them not being able to furnish money to keep it in operation, that they would shut the plant down on May 2," says the mayor's message.

"The general council will understand by this that under the various decisions of the court, while the builders of the plant refuse to operate the same, the city of Atlanta is also enjoined from operating it, notwithstanding the fact that the city has much larger monetary interests in the plant than the Destructor company," he continues, "as it owns the ground on which the plant is built, easily worth $20,000, and paid about $5,000 in building walls and other accessories during the construction of the foundations, and have already paid $125,000 on the price of the plant, this as against a balance due under the contract of $135,000 to the Destructor company. In other words, it would seem that the decision of the court as it stands at the present time just simply tells the city of Atlanta that 'you shall have no part in the operation of that plant, regardless of the interests of the city, until you deliver all moneys that they claim is due.'

"By this means the city is barred practically the privilege of appealing this case to a higher court. While I have never had any connection personally with court proceedings, I have always understood that either party not satisfied with the decision of one court had the right, without injury or hindrance, to appeal to other courts, and in various instances the decision of the lower courts have been reversed, and I believe that the city would stand a most reasonable chance for a reversal in this case.

"It is well remembered that the supreme court of Georgia in the matter of erecting this plant over-ruled a decision of the superior court of Fulton county against the Destructor company building that plant, and this was by an unanimous decision of the supreme bench. It must be readily understood and conceded that the city of Fulton county had have granted the injunction asked for by tax payers, the city of Atlanta would have been forever rid of the infamous stench of this crematory transaction.

Sees Victory Before Jury.

"I am thoroughly of the opinion, says the mayor, "that if this case could be tried before a jury that the city would receive a favorable decision.

"If there is any manner in which this matter can be carried to a higher court, I heartily recommend such action," he goes on to say. "In the first place, this case is not in court at the wish or desire of the city of Atlanta, and I feel satisfied that the people of this city will agree that they have the bad end of a very bad bargain. The plant was never worth the money, never will be, and will be a source of never-ending expense.

"The Destructor company was put fairly on notice, long before any work was commenced upon the plant, that the matter would be contested in the courts as regards the legality of the contract, and when I came into office in January, 1913, I strenuously brought the matter before the general council and the finance committee in my inaugural address and stated that the plant would be excessive in its cost of destroying garbage and also called attention to the fact that there were other bids that were better and much cheaper.

City Compelled to Submit.

"The Destructor company placed this case in court when they knew that the balance to be paid on the contract of $135,000 was in the banks to meet their demand upon completion of the plant, therefore I say, as stated above, that the city of Atlanta is in no manner responsible for this matter being in the courts or the amount of expense incurred upon such litigation. In fact, since the 14th of August, 1914, the city has had no opportunity, on account of the court proceedings and injunction, to take any part whatever in adjusting this case. In other words, we have been prevented from taking any part in it, but being compelled to submit.

"On account of the very nature of conditions in this matter, I am rather at a loss as to how to deal with it, as it is entirely a court question and I do not wish to be misunderstood or placed in the position of criticising any court.

"The general council will readily understand that I, nor any other members of the city government, have had any official connection with the crematory plant since the 19th of January, 1915, more than a year ago.

Contract Not Respected.

"I did not believe that the Destructor company's plant was completed according to contract, and I do not believe it yet. I consider that three of the most important points of an incinerating plant in its construction are its ventilation, the destruction of all the objectionable odors that arise from the handling of garbage, the amount of garbage that the plant will destroy and the price for the destruction of that garbage and upkeep of the plant. According to the company's own statement and the court's direction the cost of the burning of the garbage is in excess of the contract price. The contract says that upon a certain character of labor in three shifts of eight hours each for twenty-four hours, that the combined cost of that operation shall not exceed 25 cents per ton. Yet they have asked the court to allow them 53 cents per ton, more than doubling the contract price. This certainly is not in compliance with the contract.

"From all the information and records that I have had the plant has never destroyed 250 tons of garbage per day of twenty-four hours. It may have exceeded that amount when there was a very small percentage of garbage and nearly all rubbish which would burn if set afire in an old fied. The statements that have been made that the city of Atlanta has furnished as high as 90 per cent of garbage in a day, I do not think could be sustained from any standpoint, from the fact that it has taken anywhere from three to ten or fifteen days to accumulate a sufficient amount of garbage at different times to hold tests. Even during the heavy garbage season in Atlanta, according to Chief Jentzen, we were unable to supply anything like 45 per cent of garbage. Now, as stated above, the plant has never come up to its contract agreement and I am satisfied that it will never do that and properly consume the garbage and take care of the gases that arise therefrom. This feature of a garbage plant is the most vital of all and in it the health of the community is involved.

Company Most at Fault.

"As regards the question of tests, the Destructor company has been as much, or more, at fault than has the city of Atlanta. The board of health, about the month of October, 1913, two months after the plant was supposed to be completed, requested of the Destructor company a test of the plant, feeling that at that time of the year, before the garbage season had disappeared, that they could provide the percentage of garbage to enable them to hold a test. The Destructor company refused or declined to enter into anything of the kind. At the same time the contract called for a time after the completion of the plant sufficient to give the furnaces time to dry out. Later in the winter when the Destructor company was fully aware that the city of Atlanta could not furnish 10 per cent of garbage, much less 45 per cent, they requested a test, but on account of the condition, the board of health could not accede to it. Later, in February or March, a test was provided at the request or demand of the Destructor company and the city provided the necessary amount to have that test. At that time the Destructor company arbitrarily refused to go into it. Later a test was provided and according to our engineers in charge, the plant failed to carry out its guarantees. After that time they entirely changed the type of furnace.

"There had been such strenuous complaint about the offensive condition of the plant in different parts of the city, and especially from the Terminal station, and even passengers on trains going by, that the matter was placed before the Destructor people and they were notified that such conditions must be corrected. After that time, according to their statements, they expended several thousand dollars in attempting to correct, in a large manner, the ventilation and offensive parts of the plant.

"President Foster, of the Destructor company, informed the city in December, 1914, more than four months after the plant, according to the decision, was supposed to be completed, that they had installed induced draught fans in the chimney stack and that this would still further increase the plant's efficiency. It cannot be reasonably supposed that the company, if the contract had been properly completed, would have expended $3,000 in order to make these changes. So the only reasonable construction to put upon that is that the president of that company recognized that the plant was inefficient on August 8 and attempted to make the necessary corrections and so notified the city in December—four months after the suit had been filed.

"Another very great reason why the general council passed resolutions refusing the plant was the physical construction. The auxiliary machinery, trolly hoists and grab buckets were continually breaking down. In fact there was hardly a day but what some repairs had to be made upon that part of the plant. The chairman of the sanitary committee made daily reports to me for many months and nearly every day they contained notice of a break-down in some part of the plant. It must be readily understood and conceded that the city in paying such an enormous price for a plant of that character that it was expected to be of first-class construction and not of a flimsy nature continually breaking down and being a constant expense. Mr. Ashley repeatedly suggested changes in the hoisting apparatus that would prevent all this trouble, but the company would not make any change from their original plans. The court in its decree recognized this important part and even instructs that 'the Destructor company be required to remedy this defect. Now upon that construction is it not fair to say that until such time as the Destructor company makes that correction that the contract is incomplete?

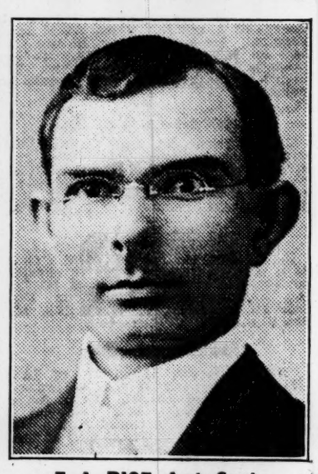

Action Must be Complete.

"On account of the general council having previously set aside this entire contract, there is no way in which the matter can be officially recognized only by action of the general council, therefore this whole matter is referred to your honorable body for such action as it may deem best. But I consider, and do make this condition, that whatever is done, it must be complete. I mean by that, that if it is the desire of the general council to pay these amounts set aside as to the Destructor company I want the whole matter straightened up and paid at once. This crematory stench entered my administration in the courts and the courts made the general council provide all of the money to pay on that contract, which was done in the June apportionment sheet of 1913. Now, I say that if it is the desire of the council to make any settlement of this it must be done on a cash proposition, as the supreme court has held you cannot carry over this obligation and I cannot approve of any action that looks to the recommending of next year's council to pay anything.

"Any statement that the city was not willing and ready at any moment to pay the balance on the plant is absolutely unfounded. The only thing that was demanded was a fair interpretation and completion of the contract according to its specifications. This the city of Atlanta had a right to demand, whether it ever receives it or not."

HEALTH OFFICIALS STRESS NEED OF GARBAGE PLANT

action to take care of the garbage of the city, and the members of the special committee of council were a unit in the opinion that some agreement should be reached by which the city will be enabled to operate the plant, no settlement of the differences with the Destructor company was reached after a two-hour session Monday night, and the committee adjourned to meet again at 10 o'clock this morning.

The council committee composed of Councilman McCord, Councilman Ashley, Councilman W. D. White, Alderman Owens, Alderman Seawright and Alderman Armistead, was appointed at the meeting of general council Monday afternoon.

The first meeting was held last night in the city hall to confer with representatives of the Destructor company. It was the consensus of opinion of the members of the committee that the differences of company and city should be adjusted so that the city will not have to do without the use of the plant longer than is absolutely necessary.

After the committee adjourned last night, Dr. J. P. Kennedy, health officer, said: "The affair should be settled by all means and the city take over the plant. The only proper way to dispose of garbage is by burning, and to go back to the old method of dumping in the vacant lots around the edge of the city will be unsanitary and unpleasant. It will be a decided step backward.

"The dumping of garbage will tend to the breeding of flies, which in turn will tend toward disease. The odors from the dump piles will be most unpleasant. It is decidedly best to settle the matter so that the city can operate the plant."

"Should be Settled."

Chief John Jentzen, head of the sanitary department, said: "The litigation should be settled by all means. The city needs the use of the plant for health reasons. To force the sanitary department to dump garbage on the vacant lots will be an outrage on the community. The health of the town is in good shape at this time and ought to be kept that way.

"The garbage will have to be dumped on the outskirts of the city near the homes of the poorer people, and it is these people who ought to be protected. To go back to dumping the garbage will be a bad thing for the health of the community. I foresee that the city will have to use this method for some days until the question of the crematory can be settled. During this time I intend to take every precaution and will not spare expense. I will use disinfecting powder and liquid on the dump piles."

George Spence, attorney for the Destructor company, who has served notice on the city that Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock the plant will be shut down by the company, made the same statement after the meeting Monday night. "The company will positively shut down that plant at 5 o'clock this afternoon. That is final, no matter what agreement the committee reaches at the meeting this morning. My company simply can't stand the cost of operating any longer.

City May Operate.

"Even if the city reaches an agreement with the company that is satisfactory to both parties the company will not operate the plant longer than 5 o'clock this afternoon. If the city wants to operate after they meet our terms, presuming they do, all well and good. It will be their plant then and they can do with it as they see fit."

Most of the time of the meeting last night was consumed by a discussion of the ways and means of meeting the demands of the company. The committee as a whole was of the opinion that some settlement should be made, but could not reach an agreement. The city will have to pay something like $189,000 to the company to meet all items due under the findings of the federal court.

No Holdup Proposition.

Mr. Spence, attorney for the company, told the committee: "In spite of the way the attitude of my clients may appear to the members of this committee and to the general council I don't want them to feel that this is a holdup proposition. I don't want to name any conditions that the city can't meet. The point has been reached when the company can't operate this plant any longer. The company has not got the money. The company had to borrow money for the contract and it has reached the point now where the banks will not advance any more. With this situation staring them in the face it is necessary to shut down the plant. That is the only course left for them to pursue.

"The plant itself needs radical overhauling. It has been in constant operation twenty-four hours out of every day for the last two years.

Amount Due Company.

"In figuring up the amount due the company, under the decision of the court, I cannot arrive at the exact sum by reason of the fact that many of the items have not yet been named. I don't agre with the court on one point. I believe that if the proper appeal was made the judge would see our side and reverse himself. That is the item he allows for overhead operating expense from December 18, 1914. The company feels that this should begin from August 18, 1914, when the city was served with formal notice of suit for this amount and a demand for payment. The court found that this notice was from December 18.

"However, you gentlemen claim that the company should install new cranes in the plant. The company has already installed one more crane than the contract called for and we feel we have done enough. In an effort to reach an agreement, however, I will cede to the city the item of the overhead expense from August to December, amounting to something like $15,000 for the new cranes you are seeking.

"Members of the committee took exception to the statements of Mr. Spence saying that they did not think the court would find for the company, as he believed. No decision was reached on the matter.

"The cost of operating the plant," said Mr. Spence, "has been figured by me and others to be about $728 per week. This includes the cost of the labor used, the cost of overhead expense, repairs to machinery and every other item of expense connected with the work.

"Another thing I want to correct is the statement which has appeared so often in the papers that the company and the city had agreed to split the costs of the case. This is not true. The company has made no such agreement and I think the city will be forced to meet all costs when the judge finally decides this point. They will probably be about $12,000."

"I have figured that the city is due the company about $189,000 by the decision of the court. Of this sum $135,000 is due on the balance of the contract. Interest at seven per cent is due on this amount. Operation of the plant at $728 per week, the average reached after figuring the total cost of operation since the company started, with about 40 per cent subtracted from the sum total for the amount paid the company by the city makes the total still due about the above named sum."

Believes Cost Will Be Split.

James L. Mayson, city attorney, was asked what he estimated the city would have to pay if it agreed to the findings of the court. He said that the figures given the committee were about right, he thought, though he had never calculated it closely.

"I think the cost of the case will be divided by the court. Of course Mr. Spence and I can't agree on this, but then both of us are theorizing about the possible findings of Judge Newman. If the case were appealed to the higher court it would probably be next fall either in November, or possibly January of next year, before the higher court finally passed on the case. In the meantime the city would have to dump garbage on the vacant lots. If by any chance the case was decided against the city this practice would have to be continued until the city met the costs of the case and the plant was the property of Atlanta, to be operated by the city."

Council Meets Wednesday.

Council will hold a special meeting Wednesday afternoon to consider the report of the special committee appointed to meet with the attorneys for the Destructor company and make an effort to reach an agreement whereby the city would operate the plant after it is closed down.

POSSES ARE SEARCHING FOR NEGRO ASSAILANT

Valdosta, Ga., May 1.—Officials of Brooks and Lowndes counties and a posse of citizens tonight still were searching for an unknown negro who, according to a statement given them today by a well-known white woman living in Brooks county, criminally assaulted her late Saturday afternoon. The woman is in a serious condition. Several negroes were arrested and taken before her for identification. All have been released except one, but the woman's nervous condition was such that she could not say positively he was the guilty man. There is talk of summary justice at the hands of the posse if the right man is caught.

SENATOR BLAIR LEE BEATEN IN MARYLAND

Baltimore, May 1.—Congressman David J. Lewis, of Cumberland, defeated Senator Blair Lee and W. Cabell Bruce for the democratic nomination for United States senator in the state-wide primary today. Dr. Joseph I. France, of Cecil county, won the republican senatorial nomination over former Governor Goldsborough.

Senator Lee carried three of the four districts in Baltimore city, where he received the support of the city organization. Congressman Lewis had the backing of the state organization, of which Senator Smith and Governor Harrington are the leaders. Mr. Bruce received a comparatively small vote.

Although a few delegates elected to the republican state convention are pledged to work for a "Hughes or Roosevelt" delegation to the national convention, indications are that the regular republican organization will control the state convention, and that an uninstructed delegation will be sent to Chicago.

Congressman J. F. C. Talbott defeated Lloyd Wilkinson by a large majority for the democratic nomination for congress in the second district.

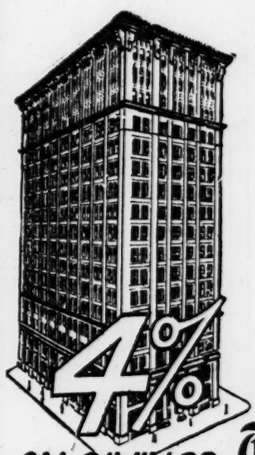

The democratic and republican state conventions will be held next week.

VON DER GOLTZ KILLED BY TURKISH OFFICER?

London, May 1.—Reuter's Bucharest correspondent telegraphs as follows, regarding the recent death of the German field marshal, Von Der Goltz:

"A person whose opinion is of some weight and who has arrived here from Constantinople declares that Field Marshal von der Goltz was shot by Ali Abdullah, an officer of an Anatolian infantry regiment, the evening of April 14. He fired three times at the field marshal, all the bullets taking effect."

"—and don't forget your Sanatogen"

Sound advice indeed! And from the heart, for the doctor knows from long experience how Sanatogen helps whenever it is a question of toning up a patient.

Up to 1912 some 15,600 commendatory letters had been received from physicians who used Sanatogen to aid the treatment they had prescribed. In 1914 this total grew to 19,750 and now almost 23,000 such letters are on file at our various offices.

Twenty-three thousand letters from practising physicians acknowledging the good Sanatogen has done—in their practices, or even in their own families! A remarkable tribute—yet these letters indicate but a fraction of the actual number of physicians who recommend Sanatogen, for naturally most doctors cannot take the time to report their experience of Sanatogen.

And so also with laymen: The letters from Col. Henry Watterson, Sir Gilbert Parker, John Burroughs and others, telling of the invigorating effects of Sanatogen are but an echo of what thousands of others daily experience.

So you may well take the advice unto yourself and when—through overwork, worry or illness—your body and nerves get out of balance, resolve not to "forget your Sanatogen."

Grand Prize, International Congress of Medicine, London, 1913

Col. Henry Watterson, the editor, writes:

"I could not have regained my vitality without Sanatogen acting equally upon my digestive organs and nerve centers."

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists, everywhere, in sizes from $1.00 up

GEORGIA IS PICTURED AS DESERT EXPANSE

"Can I Make It?" Pants Camel, Trudging Way to Chattanooga.

A thirsty camel wearily ambling across a vast expanse of sand labeled "Georgia" in the direction of a distant oasis called "Chattanooga," and panting, "Can I make it to Chattanooga?" as he disconsolately drags himself across the barren waste, form the striking features of a unique window display of the Southern Book Concern, 72 Whitehall street, which was unveiled last Saturday.

Above the portraiture is the legend, "A camel can go eight days without a drink." In one corner of the display—the groundwork of which is made to represent the map of Georgia—where mountains are shown on the ordinary map, is a desert sign-board reading "Rabun Gap Oasis," suggestive of the "mountain dew" still in another section is "the Georgia cemetery," in which is a monument erected to the social clubs, the city of Atlanta, and $75,000 in revenue, lying buried in graves side by side. "Wet headquarters" in the form of an express office annex, is shown in another section of the picture.

The camel is of papier mache, and is strikingly realistic. The work is that of Mills and Eubanks.

Sugar.

New York, May 1.—There were no new developments in the local market for raw sugar today. Holders weer offering Cubas sugar today. Holders were offering Cubas shipment sugars 5½c was asked, but buyers again displayed a waiting attitude and no further sales were reported. Closing prices were 5 7-16c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.46 for centrifugal and 5.96 for molasses.

In refined one leading refiner reduced prices ten points, but others remained unchanged, with the general range still quoted at 7.40 to 7.50 for fine granulated. Trading was very quiet, and withdrawals on old contract were light.

Futures were a little easier under scattered selling by commission houses, but offerings were well taken and after prices had declined 1 to 4 points for the active positions there was a partial rally on covering and some support from trade interests, with closing prices unchanged to 2 points net lower.

Closed steady.

New York, May 1.—Reports of unfavorable weather conditions in the south and of continued firmness in the spot markets seemed responsible for a more active buying movement in the cotton market today and there was a sharp advance in prices. July contracts sold up to 12.30, the highest level reached since that delivery touched 11.44 on the break of last February, and the general list closed form at a net gain of 13 to 17 points for the day.

The early cables were somewhat disappointing, but Liverpool soon firmed up, presumably on reports of unseasonable temperatures in the belt, and after opening unchanged to 3 points higher the local market developed increasing strength. Liverpool was a light seller of January and March here, but bought July and October freely, supposedly to undo old straddles and the firm tone of the stock market was accompanied by considerable Wall street buying, probably for both accounts. New Orleans was also a buyer here, while leading trade interests continued free buyers of July, and about the only contracts for sale seemed to reflect realizing by old longs on a scale up. These offerings were sufficient to cause reactions of 2 or 3 points during the early afternoon, but were very readily absorbed and the high point was reached in the late trading when May sold at 12.15 and October at 12.40, or 15 to 18 points net higher. Closing prices were within a point or two of the best. International politics naturally came in for more or less discussion around the ring, and some read the day's news less favorably, but if they were an influence on the market it seemed to be in the way of restricting demand on the bullish weather and crop conditions. Not many advices were received here from the south during the day, but there were scattering reports of a good spot demand and complaints that low temperatures and cold rains were causing further delays in germination. The official forecasts were for unsettled weather and lower temperatures in the eastern belt, while frost was expected in parts of the western belt. Weather conditions from now on will be studied with a view to their bearing upon first official crop reports due on June 1, and the tendency to scale down estimates of the acreage was probably a factor today.

Spot cotton steady; middling uplands, 12.30; sales, 1,900.

Advance Nearly $1 Per Bale.

New Orleans, May 1.—Cotton was advanced almost $1 a bale on this market today by buying stimulated by the forecast of frost in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, and by the higher prices in the spot department. Trading was fairly active and the undertone was firm throughout the session. The opening was at the advance and in the first half hour of business prices were lifted 10 to 14 points. The market was strongest late in the afternoon following the quoting of spot prices 15 points up, which sent middling to 12 cents. At the best the trading months were 17 to 20 points up; the close was 16 to 21 up.

While the weather over Sunday was warmer and more favorable and there was much talk of extensive planting, especially in Texas, the chief influence from the start was the outlook for a fall in temperatures as the result of the cold wave now crossing the country. The refusal of spot holders to trade except at the advance, excited much bullish comment and sellers were not willing to operate on the short side with the premium of spots over futures showing a tendency to widen.

Spot cotton steady; 12 points up. Sales on the spot, 1,770; to arrive, 635. Good ordinary, 10.50; strict good ordinary, 11.00; low middling, 11.50; strict low middling, 11.75; middling, 12; strict middling, 12.25; good middling, 12.50; strict good middling, 12.75. Receipts, 1,963; stock, 283,222.

STOCKS CONTINUE TO SHOW ADVANCE

Activity and Strength Shown Largely by Few Special Features, Mercantile Marine Being Feature.

New York, May 1.—Regardless of numerous week-end developments of an adverse character, chiefly the increasing expansion of labor disturbances and the British defeat in the east, today's market continued its upward march. To be sure, an altogether disproportionate amount of the activity and strength was shown by a few special issues, Mercantile Marines again being the dominant feature at new high records.

Combined dealings increased marine preferred and common amounted to 230,000 shares, or about one-quarter of the whole. Aside from the fixed belief that the company's reorganization plan is soon to be issued and that it is likely to be acceptable to all interests, there was on news to account for the continued prominence of these shares. Marine preferred made an extreme gain of 7¾ points at 98 and the common 4½ at 29¼. Other shipping shares were strong, Pacific Mail gaining 3¼ and United Fruit 2 points.

Recognized war shares regained some of the recent prominence, Crucible Steel, Baldwin and American Locomotive, American Car, rubbers and metals and minor equipments and industrials rising 1 to 4 points. Mexicans were visibly improved by reports of a reassuring nature regarding the course of negotiations with the de facto government. Mexican Petroleum rose 3½ and American Smelting's maximum gain was 2½.

Rails were again a negligible factor until the final hour, when Reading led a general rise in that group, the movement deriving its impetus from reports of a settlement of the anthracite coal controversy. March statements of leading railway systems also were of material assistance.

Routine news included advices from leading railway centers, showing marked gains in tonnage movements over the same period of last year, a further expansion of bank clearings and general mercantile operations and increased dividend disbursements by manufacturers of metal products.

The lack of news regarding the German situation was considered a favorable augury and the collapse of the Irish rebellion was reflected in the better tone of international markets.

Bonds were steady, but otherwise featureless. Total sales, par value, $2,990,000.

Panama's coupon 3's were 1⅛ lower on call.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS OF COTTON SITUATION

New York, May 1.—(Special.)—Cotton closed this afternoon at the highest level it has reached in two and one-half months. The better feeling was due principally to the weather, which was too cold for germination, but there still appears to be a decided idea of holding for higher prices and the securing of May shipments is naturally a larger undertaking than securing April shipments, for April is usually a neglected month for such engagements. We are not in accord with the advance and do not concur in the idea that becomes more general that cotton, of its own merit, is a purchase. It requires a soing memory indeed to find the time when new crop purchases made in May at 12½ cents or higher showed a profit later on. In fact for the past fifteen years there have been four years, namely, 1903, 1905, 1907 and 1909, when cotton could not have been bought cheaper in June, July or August than it sold any time during May. The reason for this is that it is always too cold for germination in the early days of May and the crop looks better thirty to sixty days later than it does on May 1. There is no denying, however, the fact that there is a well-defined idea by a lot of optimists that cotton is well worth buying and holding until after the war is over. The answer to this is that they are right, cotton would not be high if the war were over—if they have the patience to wait for the end of the war they will be rewarded.

RENSKORF, LYON & CO.

New York, May 1.—(Special.)—Persistent buying of May and July by Liverpool and local spot firms brought about a larger general business here today in the course of which prices advanced about 15 points. The demand for the old crop positions corroborates current reports of a strong spot situation and this, coupled with present indications of only a moderate increase in the acreage sown to cotton, is having the effect of causing shorts to cover. The market maintains a firm undertone and the trade appears willing to take cotton on liberal quantities at any moderate decline in price.

BOND, M'EANY & CO.

New York, May 1.—(Special.)—The defense of this cotton market is in the hands of the thousands of private opinions commanded by general prosperity; their ammunition is the technical position of the market, the small increase in acreage and the reduction in fertilizer. We see no ultimate risk in futures at these prices.

JOHNSTON, STORM & CO.

Coffee.

New York, May 1.—There was a sharp break in the market for coffee futures here today, with July contracts selling down to 8.27 and December to 8.48, or about 21 to 23 points below the high records of last week. The market opened at a decline of 6 to 15 points under rather heav

TOUGH ONE IS LOST BY CRACKERS

Someone Was Asleep and Crackers Lost Fine Chance To Win Game in the Ninth

By Jack Bethea.

Birmingham, Ala., May 1.—(Special.) The Barons did their best to thrust this afternoon's contest on the Crackers, but Charlie Frank's henchmen refused to have it so, and Birmingham, under protest, won 5 to 4. It was a game in which all kinds of weird plays were pulled.

Either Munch or Thrasher lost a fine chance for the Crackers, when, in the ninth, with two outs, a man on third and second, and one run needed to tie the score, Thrasher allowed himself to be caught off third by Eddie McDonald's hoary hidden-ball trick.

It effectually nipped Atlanta's rally which had assumed serious proportions. Munch was coaching and was asleep at the switch.

The Weird Ninth.

The game was won and lost in the ninth by the Crackers, and the story in detail follows:

Moran lifted a high pop back of second, and Clark dropped the ball after waiting a half minute for it. Mayer flew out to Carroll, the gardener picking the ball off the fence. Thrasher poked one through the pitcher's box and Mayer was held at second by Caton. McDonald struck out, but Lennox doubled to deep center, and Moran counted. Thrasher should have tallied, knotting the score, but Munch held him on third. Then came the prize play of the afternoon. Bill Lindsay, Eddie McDonald and Grimes walked over toward short for a consultation, separating almost immediately. Thrasher stepped off the bag when Grimes walked into the box and McDonald tagged him, retiring the side.

The winning run was counted for Birmingham on a play almost on a parity. The play came in the sixth when Lindsay was safe on McMillan's wild throw to first, taking second on the play. Derrick stung one to Mayer, and Bill went to third, only to be caught in a chase a moment later between third and home. He was eventually run down, but not until Charlie Carroll, who had hit to Lennox, was perched on third. Charlie stole home on the second ball pitched and was safe a mile.

Grimes and Davis.

The game was interrupted for a bit in the fourth when Grimes became peeved when he had to take the dirt to avoid Davis' slants a couple of times. He accused Davis of using the bean ball.

In the first of the fifth Grimes took a shot at Davis, who was first up, and was warned by Pfenninger. All the players ran on the field and for a time it looked as if hostilities might follow.

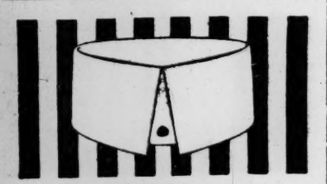

Davis continued wild and kept the Barons dodging. He later had some words with Cecil Coombs, but nothing developed.

Davis was solved at critical moments of the game, the majority of the Barons' counters coming in the third, when four hits netted three runs. The Crackers counted one each in the third, fourth, fifth and ninth, but were never able to push over more than a single counter. Their best chance came in the fifth, when, after Davis had popped to Lindsay, Moran singled to left and Mayer followed with a rap to center. Thrasher hit to Lindsay, forcing Mayer at second. McDonald doubled to left and Moran counted, but Grimes called Smith away from the plate and served Lennox four wide ones. Perkins justified these tactics when he lifted an easy fly to Coombs.

STAR PLAYER BOARD IN OPERATION TODAY.

The Star player board for reproducing baseball games, the greatest board of its kind in the world, will be in operation this afternoon at Dick Jemison's baseball parlors on the viaduct.

This board reproduces every play, not only showing the ball being delivered by the pitcher, but its every movement, whether a grounder, a fly, a safe hit or foul. It also shows the runners as they leave the home plate.

The Star player is the great game of baseball exactly as it is played on the diamond, mechanical devices taking the place of the actual players in the game.

The Birmingham-Atlanta game will be reproduced on this board this afternoon, starting at 3:30 o'clock. There is no increase in price.

AD BRENNAN TO HURL FOR LOCALS

Former Big League Star Bought by Manager Frank. To Report Here Thursday. Should Help Team.

Chicago, May 1.—The Chicago National league club today released Pitcher Ad Brennan to the Atlanta Southern association team.

The above dispatch should prove of considerable interest to local fandom. Brennan will probably join the Crackers upon their return home from Birmingham Thursday.

Brennan was a star of the Philadelphia Nationals in 1912 and 1913. He leaped to the Feds in 1914, and played with them in 1915, becoming a member of the Chicago Cubs under the amalgamation scheme.

Brennan's acquisition will probably mean that some present member of the hurling staff will be disposed of. The former Philly is expected to round up a splendid staff, with Lafitte, Perry and Wilson as a nucleus. Red Day is probably the man slated for the ax.

BRYANT IN FORM; JACKETS WINNERS

Southpaw Holds Commodores to No Hits After Second Inning — Vanderbilt's Errors Costly.

By Hal Reynolds.

By playing better ball in every department, Tech defeated Vanderbilt yesterday afternoon at Grant field, the score being 6-1. This was the third game of the four scheduled between the two teams and gives the Jackets their second win.

Pug Bryant adorned the mound for Tech and came through with one of the best games pitched by a Tech man this year.

The Commodores secured but three hits and after the second inning went hitless. Six of them fanned.

Ridley, who won last Friday's game in Nashville against the Jackets, twirled a good game, the majority of the runs scored against him coming through errors. He was a bit wild, walking four men and making a couple of wild heaves that helped in the scoring. He fanned four men and yielded four hits.

The Jacket supporters warmly welcomed "Scrappy" Moore, third baseman for Vandy, who played third for Tech three years ago.

Vanderbilt put up a sorry game in the field, making errors on three fly balls that should have been easy outs. Nearly all of their miscues were costly. Tech made five slips, two of which accounted for Vandy's tally.

Albert Hill put up a splendid game for Tech at the short station, having six hard chances and handling them all cleanly.

L. Turner made a nice catch of Bryant's liner to right in the second, robbing him of a hit and preventing a run.

Davidson did some fast work around short for Vanderbilt, robbing two Tech men of hits.

Preas handled a number of wide and low throws to first in splendid style, saving his team-mates a number of errors.

The Runs.

Vanderbilt got their only run in the first when Curry singled with one down. He stole second, Morrison's throw being low. When Wooten let the ball get through him, Curry scored.

Tech got two in the second. K. Morrison errored Hill's fly and Preas was walked, both advancing a base on a wild pitch. Spence fanned, but Burghard hit to Moore, who threw wild to first, Hill and Preas scoring.

Wooten walked to start the third. He was sacrificed to second by C. Smith and took third on J. Smith's out. He tallied on Morrison's triple to the right field bank.

In the sixth, Morrison singled to right and took second on Hill's out. Spence lifted a fly to K. Morrison, who missed it, Froggie scoring.

Tech added two more in the seventh when Burghard went to third on Davidson's wild throw of his grounder. Bryant walked and Wooten scored both runners with a double to right.

Chattanooga, May 1.—Pitler's long single to right in the seventh, with Elberfeld stationed at first and the hit and run play gave Chattanooga a 1 to 0 victory over Little Rock in the opening game of the series this afternoon. The local manager scored the only run of the contest a moment later on Graff's infield out, which forced Pitler at second. The game was a brilliant pitcher's battle between Hoff and Marshall. Poor base running by the visitors aided the local pitcher in securing the decision.

MARCAN AND GAGNIER RETURN FROM TRIP

Eddie Made Free Agent—Lil Will Get in Game When Crackers Return Home.

Eddie Gagnier and Lil Marcan, two of the Crackers' second-sackers were both present at the detail of the Birmingham-Atlanta game in Dick Jemison's baseball parlors yesterday.

Gagnier has been made a free agent, and is awaiting word here from a couple of clubs with whom he says he has offers to play. Eddie regrets his inability to get away good, as he wanted to play here, but everything broke bad for him.

Marcan was sent home by Manager Frank because he was not yet strong enough to get into the game. But Lil says he is coming along all right, and hopes to be pastiming at the keystone when the Crackers get home Thursday. He will work out today and Wednesday at Poncey.

When Marcan gets in the game, Johnny Clancy, who has not been able to make a safe hit this season, will probably draw the pink slip.

EDDIE AND EDGAR COLLINS CELEBRATE

Famous Second Baseman and Braves' Recent Outfielder Have Birthdays Today.

By a strange coincidence, this is the birthday of two ball players who answer to the name of E. Collins. Edward the Great, star of second basemen, was born at Millerton, N. Y., May 2, 1887, and thus stands today at the threshold of his thirtieth year. Edgar Collins, the young and promising outfielder of the Braves, is a native of Brooklyn, and was born May 2, 1892, and thus rounds out his twenty-fourth year today.

Eddie Collins, the $50,000 ball player, is Mr. Edward Trowbridge Collins while wearing citizen's clothing. What is more, he would doubtless have been content to wear citizen's clothing all his life except for the crafty wiles of one Cornelius McGillicuddy. When Eddie entered Columbia university it was not with the intention of fitting himself to play professional baseball. His family wanted him to be a lawyer, and, until the villain, long and lank, came upon the scene, Eddie himself thought he wanted to be a lawyer.

At Columbia Edward Trowbridge was an apt pupil, but he didn't neglect his favorite sports. He made the varsity nine in his freshman year, played through the two following seasons, and was elected captain of the Columbia team for his senior year. In the autumn he played quarterback on the varsity football team, that being in the days before the Columbia faculty put the kibosh on the gridiron sport. He had only one year as a football player, and then the ban was put on. Eddie has never entirely recovered from his enthusiasm for the pigskin sport, however, and during the season he sees at least one big game every week.

There is a tradition that while a Columbia student Collins applied for a job with both the Giants and the Yankees, but, like many traditions, this one does not stand the acid test of truth. McGraw never heard of Eddie until he landed with Philadelphia, and Clark Griffith, the Yankee pilot, was in equal ignorance.

Although captain of the Columbia nine, and its most prominent player, Eddie did not have so much respect for the sacred vow of amateurism as to refuse to pick up a little money in vacation. Eddie played with semi-pro clubs in Pittsburg, N. Y., Rockville, Conn., and Rutland, Va.

Eddie has himself told how he broke into the majors with the Athletics ten years ago. "A scout for the Athletics asked me how I would like to join Connie, but I told him that I did not want to lose playing with Columbia the season all right and I would travel under an assumed name.

"So I went to Philadelphia and out to the clubhouse, which was on the old grounds at Columbia avenue. Connie's office had two rooms, and he was in the inside office. Tim Murnane, the baseball writer, was in the inner office when I showed up.

"Connie could look out and spot anybody coming in. Tim and several of the local reporters were there, too. I remember Connie saw me and he did not want the scribes to get wise, so he got up out of his chair, ran to the door and pushed me into the outer office. As he bumped me out Connie stuck out his hand and said, 'How do you do, Mr. Sullivan? Come right along with me.' He took me down behind the grandstand and I practiced there for three days. The western trip opened up at Chicago and I played there under the name of Sullivan."

Edgar Collins, the Brave outfielder, started his baseball career in West Virginia, but he first made a name for himself while playing with San Antonio, in the Texas league. He was sold to the Pirates in 1914, but was turned over to Youngstown, Ohio. The Pirates recalled him last year, and sold him to Boston in September.

Baby Doll Jacobsen Did Not Get a Hit Monday; First Miss This Season

Baby Doll Jacobsen, centerfielder for the Little Rock Travelers, failed to get a hit in yesterday's game against Chattanooga.

This is the first game that he has missed in this season. He went fifteen consecutive games getting one or more hits.

Queries Answered.

(Under this head the sporting editor will endeavor to answer all questions pertaining to all branches of sports.)

How many men were on bases in the game between Atlanta and Birmingham April 26, when McMillan fumbled a fast hit ground ball and recovered and threw the runner out who ran over third; also if you consider it good baseball in McMillan?

D. R.

There was only one runner on the bases. The batter made a hit as McMillan was barely able to knock the ball down with his bare hand. Not only do I think it was good baseball in making the play to third, but evidence of alertness on his part and quick thinking in figuring that the runner would turn third, not believing a play possible for him. McMillan outguessed the base runner.

CARROLLTON AMATEUR TEAM HAS BEEN FORMED

Carrollton, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The Carrollton baseball team has organized for the 1916 season, and the opening series will be played within a few days. The association is headed by an unusually strong board of directors, composed of Dr. L. J. Brook, president; R. A. Jolley, secretary-treasurer; Eugene Spradling, Raymond Robinson, W. G. Foster and B. M. Long. Interest in baseball is greater than ever heretofore so early in the season, and a subscription list of several hundred dollars has already been raised to assure the success of the 1916 season.

No efforts will be spared to round a winning team into shape, and Carrollton extends a challenge to all amateur clubs in the state or in adjacent territory in Alabama. It is hoped that any teams wishing games will address the secretary at once, in order that the games may be booked early, as it will be the policy of the association to keep engagements fixed several weeks in advance after the season opens.

AMERICUS TO HAVE AMATEUR BASEBALL

Americus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The series of baseball games here last week when Mercer defeated Auburn in two out of three games, awakened the spirit of the national pastime in this section with the result that plans are being considered to give Americus a fast amateur baseball team this summer.

Glenn Colby, who umpired the games, is director of the Americus Y. M. C. A., with quite a record as a baseball player, and it is expected that he will have part in a team for Americus this summer.

RAILROADS FACING SERIOUS SITUATION

Sentiment Strong Against Rayburn Securities Bill, Congress Realizing That New Burdens Would Prove Oppressive.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 1.—(Special.)—National interest in military preparedness is exerting an influence in widely separated spheres, and affecting activities that the laymen might not ordinarily associate with national defense.

Development of economic resources and plans for mobilization of the country's industries to aid in carrying on defensive warfare are now recognized as being material factors. Of course, these things can never take the place of efficient military measures, and trained and ready fighting machines; but they have their part in the whole scheme.

Good roads, rural credits, vocational education, a nitrate plant operated by hydro-electricity power to furnish nitric acid for military needs and fertilizers for agricultural uses, are all being urged in the name of preparedness. So is the construction of new railways, and the condition of existing transportation systems.

President Wilson's address on the opening of congress last December, referred principally to this subject. He said:

"A matter which it seems to me we should have very much at heart is the creation of the right instrumentalities by which to mobilize our economic resources in any time of national necessity. I take it for granted that I do not need your authority with the directing officers of the army and navy men of recognized leaders and ability from among our citizens who are thoroughly familiar, for example, with the transportation facilities of the country and therefore competent to advise how they may be co-ordinated when the need arises.

The president also referred to the need for studying plans of co-operation among manufacturers and those possessing special technical skill which might be useful in the solution of particular problems of defense.

This idea led to the formation of a committee of busines men in each state to co-operate with the navy consulting board.

The names of the members of this committee have already been announced.

No More Regulation at Present.

President Wilson, in discussing further the influence of railroads upon any effective system of national defense, said:

"The transportation problem is an exceedingly serious and pressing one in this country. There has from time to time of late been reason to fear that our railroads would not much longer be able to cope with it successfully, as at present equipped and co-ordinated."

The tone of this comment was remarked upon at the time as strikingly at variance with the popular expressions of the last few years with regard to railroads. Instead of recommending further regulatory legislation, the president continued:

"I suggest that it would be wise to provide for a commission of inquiry to ascertain by a thorough canvass of the whole question whether our laws as at present framed and administered are as serviceable as they might be in the solution of the problem. It is obviously a problem that lies at the foundation of our efficiency as a people. Such an inquiry ought to draw out every circumstance and opinion worth considering and we need to know all sides of the matter if we need to do anything in the field of federal legislation.

"No one, I am sure, would wish to take any backward step. The regulation of the railways of the country by federal commission has had admirable results and has fully justified the hopes and expectations of those by whom the policy of regulation was originally proposed. The question is not what should we undo? It is whether there is anything else we can do that would supply us with effective means, in the very process of regulation, for bettering the conditions under which the railroads are operated and for making them more useful servants of the country as a whole.

"It seems to me that it might be the part of wisdom, therefore, before further legislation in this field is attempted, to look at the whole problem of co-ordination and efficiency in the full light of a fresh assessment of circumstances and opinion, a guide to dealing with the several parts of it."

Further on in the address the president stated that the one thought in his message was "national efficiency and security." The discussion of railroaad and transportation problems was thus handled in relation to national defense. He himself raised the question as to whether the present facilities of railroads were adequate for a defense, and this led him to suggest a careful study of the whole question by congress, before any further action was taken, so that when they did act it could be with the view of bringing up the railroads to a higher degree of efficiency.

Senate Approves Investigation.

Since the president spoke on September 7 last, the senate has passed a resolution (senate joint resolution No. 60) providing for a joint committee of ten representing the interstate commerce committees of the senate and house be appointed to study the question. It is directed:

"To investigate the subject of the government control and regulation of interstate and foreign transportation, the efficiency of the existing system in protecting the rights of shippers and carriers, and all proposed changes in the organization of the interstate commerce commission and the act to regulate commerce."

At the demand of Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, this further provision was added: "Also the subject of government ownership of all public utilities, such as telegraph, telephone, express companies and railroads engaged in interstate and foreign commerce, and report as to the wisdom or feasibility of government ownership of such utilities and as to the comparative worth of efficiency of government regulation and control as compared with government ownership and operation."

Senator Borah did not indicate any personal preference in favor of government ownership and operation as a substitute for government regulation in the event the latter broke down, but said in all discussion of the problem the probability of government ownership being resorted to in this country continually bobbed up.

"Now, I do not mean to say that the country is ready for government ownership," said Senator Borah. "But I do say when that matter is referred to every time the question is discussed at all, there should be some educational work done by congress, so as to develop first the reasons in favor of it, if there is any; second, the reasons against it, if there be any, so that the people of the country may have the case for or against government ownership fairly before them in making up their minds upon the subject."

Representative William C. Adamson, of Georgia, chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, is strongly in favor of the joint committee of investigation being appointed. He is supporting the proposal to increase the interstate commerce commission to nine members, to permit it dividing into three sections of three members each to consider different problems of transportation arising in different sections of the country.

He thoroughly agrees, however, that no additional legislation should be superimposed upon the present mass of laws until a thorough study of the whole subject is made in accordance with the president's recommendation.

Regulation of Securities.

The committee, of which Representative Adamson is chairman, has approved the Rayburn securities bill, which once before passed the house, but indications are strongly against it. Joint resolution No. 60, which has already passed the senate, is more than apt to be agreed to in the house.

The principal provisions of the Rayburn bill are to require greater publicity of the financial transactions of railroads, and making it unlawful for a railroad to issue securities, except for a specified purpose and after approval by the interstate commerce commission.

One strong objection to the bill was that it violated the guarantee in the federal constitution against unlawful search and seizure. It proposed to give employees of the interstate commerce commission access to the private correspondence files of railroads, as well as "accounts, records and memoranda."

This question became of acute interest in the investigation made by the commission under the resolution of Senator Luke Lea, of Tennessee, into the allegation that the Louisville and Nashville railroad was granting free passes. The vice president of the railroad denied the right of the commission to have access to his letter files. In this stand he was later sustained by the supreme court.

Alfred P. Thom, the able general counsel of the Southern railway, in a wonderfully clear and vigorous argument against the Rayburn securities bill before the Adamson committee a few weeks ago, submitted this conclusion:

"It is a fundamentaal matter to be considered whether or not the time has come, as we solemnly represent to you that it has come when, in the interest of the development of this country and in order to provide adequately for its commerce, there should be something done that will invite the investment of money in these enterprises, so that their facilities may be increased and commerce may be adequately provided for.

"We tell you very solemnly that the interests of the American people are now more wrapped up in the adequacy and the safety of transportation facilities than they are in the mere question of rates. We point you to the fact that the extension of railroad construction has ceased in this country; that last year there were fewer miles of railroad built than at any time since railroad building began. We point you to the fact that everything being done now and everything that can be done under the present system is intensive in character and goes to the improvement of a plant within its present limits, and that no matter how much your population grows, no matter how much you want to develop new regions, there is not the opportunity now to do that, because there is not any inducement to the public to put their means into railroad building, as compared with the opportunities that they have in industrials. We tell you that the commerce of the United States will be halted unless some means be adopted of enabling these railroads to extend their lines or other railroads to extend their lines into regions which need development."

JACOBS' LIVER SALT

Constipation Clogs the Human Machinery

It is constipation that is often responsible for mental languor and physical exhaustion.

Constipation weakens the body's resisting powers, and sooner or later the body's defenses are broken down and the damage is beyond repairs.

Constipation often becomes chronic, due to an inactive liver; generates poison, due to fermentation in the bowels, resulting in rheumatism, indigestion and kidney diseases.

The liver is the purifying organ of the body.

Constipation will be permanently relieved by the use of JACOBS' LIVER SALT, a pleasant laxative salt, acting without pain or nausea.

Strengthens the normal process of evacuation, and thus corrects the CAUSE of constipation. Price 25c and 50c at Druggists or direct from the makers, Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta.—(adv.)

PERSONAL

DO YOU KNOW

THE marvels of Psychic Power and what it means to you? If you had told your Grandfather fifty years ago that with an X-ray the human skeleton could be seen in a living body he would have considered you mildly crazy. If you had told him that man would ever talk through the air, their winged words flying across the trackless sea, he would have thought you a raving lunatic. Yet today we can see through walls and our messages beat back and forth in the air to the far corners of the earth. We are just beginning to understand the tremendous influence of Psychic, Magnetic and Clairvoyant force—or mind power—with its influence for good or evil. One of the very few men endowed with a finely scientific mind and who possesses the knowledge of Psychic and Magnetic forces and who has spent his whole life in mastering Psychic-Phenomena with all its mysterious of the occult world, mental-telegraphy, personal magnetism and clairvoyancy is Professor David Corralla. Strange, but true. Do you know that 98 per cent of the successful men and women of today in the affairs of life, such as business, love, marriage, etc., are guided clairvoyantly either through the development of their own intuitive force or through the aid of a Professional Psychic? The day of Psychic-Phenomena as a fad, fiction and experiment has passed. The reliable Psychic of today is consulted on the material affairs and obstacles of life with the same degre of feeling and confidence that you would consult your lawyer, doctor, banker or broker. Professor David Corralla IS TODAY probably the one being of Caucasian blood who masters the occult and the first American to be thoroughly initiated into the mysterious of the Mahatmas. HE STANDS ALONE, possessing A FORCE, A POWER, A GIFT, call it what you will, that none can explain, none can account for.

Psychology as a science today is to the human being what the Government Weather Bureau is to the community and Corralla is to clairvoyancy what Edison is to electricity.

Professor David Corralla can reveal to you your weak points, strong characteristics, future possibilities, what you are best fitted for in life, etc.

So do not lose hope because the ray seems dark and the affairs of life mixed. It is determination and will that win when the efforts are rightly directed. Knowledge opens the door that ignorance would forever close.

If you are in doubt about anything, worried or unhappy, making changes in business, or doubtful as to friends or family matters, Corralla is the one to consult.

Private and personal matters requiring clear insight, wise advice and good judgment are among the subjects receiving his most careful attention and skilful handling. If you have enemies, or pursued by bad influences, or have secret plans you do not wish to discuss, Corralla will help you as no one else can. You will feel as if you had laid your burden down when he directs you. The days of worry will be over.

Fortune flirts with fools, but abides with wise men. If you don't know her ways you can't detect her wiles. To be warned means to be armed.

The truth is ready for the one who is ready for the truth. "I am the way; I am the light." "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." "Unto ye who are sincere I reveal all," good or bad.

Professor Corralla's fee for consultation is $1.00. Do not hesitate to call upon him if you are in trouble. He can help you. His aim in life is to aid and assist humanity to a better and happier life. He turns no one away who is sincere and deserving. SUBMARINE ATTACKS FRENCH LINER PATRIA

Torpedo Missed the Passenger Ship by About Ten Feet.

New York, May 1.—The French passenger steamer Patria, which arrived here today from Naples and Palermo, reported that on her last outward voyage at 10 a. m. on April 5, she was the target of a submarine torpedo attacks in the Mediterranean. The torpedo missed the ship by about ten feet, the officers said.

The Patria was passing Cape Spartavento, Sardinia, and running at full speed. The submarine did not show itself, the officers said, and no periscope was seen, but the torpedo's wake was visible.

The Patria was not armed, but a gun was placed on her after deck when she arrived in Naples and was ready for action during the trip finished here today.

This is the second time that the Patria has escaped destruction by a torpedo.

The Patria at the time of her second escape had thirty-eight passengers aboard, of whom at least one was an American named Vincent Howell, according to the passenger list for the trip.

Captain Pierre de Chelle said he was standing on the bridge, looking toward port, when the first officer, at starboard, exclaimed: "Look! Torpedo!" and about 200 feet off, forward to starboard, at an angle of 45 degrees he saw the wake which told him a torpedo was approaching.

"We were going at full speed," said Captain de Chelle. "It was too late to do anything. I estimate that the torpedo was traveling about 35 knots. It went under the bow, missing the Patria by about ten feet. The weather was clear and many of the passengers were on deck and saw the wake.

"I immediately leveled my glasses along the wake indicating whence the torpedo had come, but could not sight a submarine. The Patria was about sixteen miles off the coast of Sardinia."

Captain De Chelle said that in addition to Howell, whose home is in New York, there were eight or nine Italian-born passengers claiming American citizenship. Besides the thirty-eight passengers from New York the Patria took on twenty-three more at Oran, Algeria.

HE'D PROVE TRAITOR IN THE EVENT OF WAR

Socialist Labor Candidate Reimer and Followers Would Block Supplies to Troops.

New York, May 1.—Arthur E. Reimer, presidential candidate of the socialist labor party, in a speech at a meeting held to ratify his nomination here tonight, declared that, in the event of this country becoming involved in war he and his followers would "block the manufacture and transportation of munitions to the troops in the field," and would tell the capitalistic classes to do the fighting themselves.

"When you get it into your head that you are a commodity and that you are bought and sold in the labor market," he told his audience, "then you have come to a point where you are able to consider whether you have a country to defend."

Characterizing the military preparedness program "of the owning class" as hostile to the interests and lives of the working people, the national convention today adopted a resolution which said in part:

"The only 'national defense' program worthy of the workers' attention is the kind that contemplates defense of their own class interests against the only real enemy, which is the capitalist class irrespective of the country, and to prepare by organization, politically and industrially, to seize the power of government and take possession of industries in all countries, to the end that socialism shall be established, thus establishing a community of economic interests of the peoples of all countries and races which must result in abolishing wars, together with the cause of wars, forever.

AMUSEMENTS

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Early days in the theatrical history of Atlanta, and especially in the early vaudeville days of this city, were brought vividly to mind yesterday afternoon by the appearance at the Forsyth theater of Adelaide Hermann, widow of the great magician.

Hermann, the master of magic, was always one of the theatrical treats of the season. His coming was eagerly awaited in Atlanta, as in other cities, and his many illusions excited the keenest interest.

When he died his widow soon assumed the place made vacant by his passing and for many years now she has been one of the features of vaudeville.

This is the first time she has ever appeared in Atlanta under the present regime of vaudeville. In the old days, however, it was different. When Jake Wells first opened the Lyceum as a vaudeville house Mme. Hermann was one of the big attractions on his first bill. Since that time she has visited Atlanta in vaudeville at the Bijou. Not since that time has she been here professionally.

Monday she interested a large audience by many feats of illusion. Perhaps the best of them is a case of suspension, which is beautifully staged. The suspension idea is an old one, of course, but it never fails to mystify the people in front.

A unique offering and one which will make many friends before the close of the week is that of Harry Girard and company in "The Luck of a Totem Pole." It is staged in the Alaskan mountains, and the scenery drew a round of applause from the audience. While the acts is ultra-melodramic, and the lines could be considerably improved, the unusualness of the sketch and the singing were sufficient to make the offering a big hit Monday.

The bill is opened this week by "The Five Antwerp Girls," four musicians, and one singer. It has been a long time since four prettier musicians appeared on any bill in Atlanta. The girl of the harp and the violinist were particularly good to look at. It furnished a good opening number.

One of the craziest of all the crazy acts offered here this year came second. The program informs the curious that Jack Donahue and Alice Marion Stewart are appearing "in a bundle of talent and refined nonsense labeled 'Him and Her.'" "Him" wears trousers and "Her" is dressed just like "Him." "Her" would have looked much better in dresses. Anyway, the best part of the number is the eccentric dancing of "Him."

Edwin George, comedian and almost juggler, did not receive the greeting Monday to which he is justly entitled. It would seem that the people in front were not able to hear and see at the same time. George is a cleverer juggler than he would have his audience believe, and he is a decidely worth while comedian.

Anthony and McGuire, in the role of an Irishman and an Italian, draw many a laugh, and Roy and Arthur offer the oldtime Bedini and Arthur plate-smashing number.

ROBERT MORAN.

"David Garrick."

(At the Georgian.)

Dustin Farnum, supported by an ideal cast of players, appears in the leading role of that lovable drama, "David Garrick," now being shown at the Georgian theater, and which was attended by large audiences Monday afternoon and night. Some of the members of the Garrick cast are Winifred Kingston, Herbert Standing, Frank Bonn, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Olive White and Mary Mersch. The picture was produced in the Pallas studios and is a marvel of photographic and dramatic art. It is being presented with specially arranged music personally adapted by Whitney Hubner.

"Salvation Joan."

(At the Piedmont.)

"Salvation Joan," a dramatic story of New York, the New York of gay social sets and bridge-playing women and the New York Salvation the Army knows of tenements and crowded streets and a myriad vices, New York in all its lure and repellance, is set forth vividly in "Salvation Joan," the special Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature at the Piedmont today and tomorrow. Edna May, one time known as "The Belle of New York," is the heroine, and an all-star cast supports her. The entertainers at the Piedmont this week, the Senate Three, harmony singers, and Dot Marsell, a whirlwind comedienne, have attractive offerings along with the feature.

Clara Kimball Young.

Clara Kimball Young is "My Lady of the Lily," at the Alamo No. 2 today. That is what they called Arora Fernandez, a beautiful young Cuban girl who is the heroine of "The Feast of Life," a World film production. It is a romantic story of love and life worked out under hot tropic skies. An all-star cast plays with Miss Young, including Doris Kenyon, Robert Frazer and Douglas McLean. "The Strange Case of Mary Page," with Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo, is also on today's program.

TWO BRITISH VESSELS SUNK IN MEDITERRANEAN

Armed Yacht Aegusa and Mine Sweeper Nasturtium Are Destroyed by Mines.

London, May 1.—The British armed yacht Aegusa, Captain T. P. Walker, retired vice admiral, and the British mine sweeper Nasturtium, Lieutenant Commander Robin W. Six men are missing from the crew of the Aegusa, and seven from the Nasturtium.

TRANSPORT SUNK, BERLIN REPORTS.

Berlin, May 1.—(By Wireless to the Associated Press, Via Sayville.)—It is reported from Saloniki that a German submarine has torpedoed a large transport.

It is said the transport was torpedoed off Kara Burun, ten miles east of Saloniki. This is the second instance in which a transport is reported to have been torpedoed near Saloniki.

This report is contained in a dispatch from Zurich, which credits this news to the Greek newspaper, Nea Alithia, of Saloniki.

STEAMER HENDONHALL SENT TO THE BOTTOM.

London, May 1.—The British steamship Hendonhall, from Portland April 7 and Louisburg, C. B., April 11 for Rotterdam, has been sunk, according to a dispatch to Lloyds. The crew was saved.

The Hendonhall was 3,994 tons gross, 345 feet long, 47 feet beam and 19 feet deep. She was built in 1901 and owned by the West Hartlepool Steam Navigation company.

CITY OF LUCKNOW HAS BEEN SUNK.

London, May 1.—The British steamship, City of Lucknow, 3,669 tons gross, and owned in Glasgow has been sunk.

SAN JOSE IS SHAKEN BY 20 EARTH SHOCKS

San Jose, Costa Rica, May 1.—Twenty distinct earth shocks occurred here today while the people of the capital were in the midst of the first of May festival. EUROPE'S METHODISTS AT THE BATTLE FRONT 150 Preachers and 5,000 Laymen Under Arms According to Report to Conference.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 1.—At least 150 preachers and 5,000 laymen, approximately .14 per cent of the Methodist denomination of continental Europe, are or have been under arms, Bishop John L. Nuelsen, in charge of the European field, reported tonight to the general conference of Methodist Episcopal churches which opened its quadrennial session of four weeks here today.

Ten per cent of this number have been killed and a much greater proportion wounded, the bishop added.

"The war," he said, "is a great testing time for churches that are depending for their financial support on voluntary offerings. In all countries of Europe the state church system prevails. The free churches are comparatively weak, both numerically and financially.

"The great problem is whether these churches will be able to endure the tremendous strain made upon their finances as well as upon their working membership. Heavy demands are made upon the people, not only by the government, but by private and semi-official organizations for relief at home and abroad.

"While in the neutral countries the financial embarrassments are uppermost, there are added in the belligerent countries the sorrows and sufferings caused by the death of fathers, husbands, brothers, sons; also the the gloomy outlook caused by the presence of the wounded and the maimed, who, instead of being bread-winners will henceforth have to be supported."

Reports from the African field were presented by Bishops Joseph C. Hartzell and Isaiah B. Scott.

The opening session was given to the organization of the conference. The roll call was announced by 777 out of a possible 835 delegates, the largest number on record at a preliminary session. These delegates represented 131 conferences in the United States, Europe, Asia, Africa and South America.

The per capita wealth of our country, says one of the unquestionable statisticians, was $308 in 1850, and is now $1,965.

THE MOST satisfying thing I have yet discovered about these Fifteen Dollar clothes is that they seem to please the capitalist who buys them because it's good "business," and the dapper young chap who wants them for their "style."

It's the only business I know of that so perfectly "fits" the extremes.

WOLF OF WALL STREET FOR THE ATLANTA PEN

United States Court Affirms the Conviction of David Lamar.

Washington, May 1.—The supreme court today affirmed the conviction of David Lamar, referred to as the "Wolf of Wall Street," in the New York federal courts on charges of impersonating A. Mitchell Palmer to J. P. Morgan and others with intent to defraud. Lamar is under sentence to serve two years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, and today's action is the final word in the courts.

The court decided that a congressman is an officer of the United States within the meaning of the statute against the impersonation of an "officer of the United States." That was the main point on which Lamar rested his case.

New York, May 1.—It was said at the office of United States Attorney Marshall here today that, owing to the procedure in the United States supreme court David Lamar will have at least thirty days more of grace before having to begin serving his sentence in the federal penitentiary. Mr. Marshall explained that it requires that length of time for the serving of the mandate of the supreme court's decision on the lower courts. Lamar now is out on $50,000 bail.
